

DRASTIC MEASURES TAKEN TO PROTECT SIMS AS STEAMER DOCKS AT NEW YORK

POLICE PATROL STREETS WHILE ADMIRAL LANDS

Thousands Gather at Water Front To Get Glimpse Of Officer.

CHEERED AND HISSED

Not Disturbed Over the Outlook Upon Arrival In U. S.

New York, June 22.—Wearing civilian clothes, featured by a soft green hat, Admiral William Snowden Sims, apparently in a cheerful, confident mood, and in the best of health, arrived on the liner Olympic today and without any demonstrations of hostility and but a few of friendship marking his arrival, proceeded immediately by auto to the Pennsylvania station, to take the train for Washington.

New York, June 22.—Rear Admiral William S. Sims, U. S. N., who was recalled from England by Secretary of the Navy Denby because of a sensational speech on political matters, arrived today on the White Star liner Olympic. Extraordinary police precautions were made to protect the admiral from hostile demonstrations on the part of Sinn Fein sympathizers. Measures virtually as drastic as those taken to guard the life of President Wilson when he went abroad and came home, were in effect.

West street, the street, flanking North river, where the White Star line has its quay, was cleared of all persons between 14th street and 23rd street. More than 1,000 policemen were on duty as well as many detectives. Two platoons of mounted police slowly patrolled back and forth along the pier and kept the side streets clear. Other policemen on motorcycles scurried back and forth. No one except persons holding specially vided passes were allowed to approach the dock. An official reception was tendered the admiral by a group of naval officers, headed by Rear Admiral Huse, commandant of the Third naval district.

Admiral Sims did not seem perturbed over the outlook. He looked cheerful and was in the best of health. He chatted with friends, and shook hands. He was accompanied by Mrs. Sims. Passengers on the Olympic said that the admiral did not have much to say on the voyage across but was unperturbed.

Thousands Gather

Thousands of persons gathered along the water front to get a glimpse of the admiral, but they were held back in the side streets, and to the parts of West street north of 23rd and south of 18th streets. The crowd was made up of both enemies and admirers of the admiral.

When the word flashed through the crowd that the Olympic was in, some began to cheer Sims and some to hiss. The depth of the feeling was shown by the number of arguments which eventually led to blows. The admiral had fairly pleasant weather for his arrival. It was humid, but a fair breeze blew off the water.

Police boats had been held in readiness in case Sinn Fein sympathizers might attempt a demonstration down the bay, but they were not needed. The police arrangements at the pier were directed by Police Commissioner Enright but were in charge of three police inspectors, four captains and 50 sergeants. Another police inspector and 200 men were at the Pennsylvania station where the admiral was expected to take a train for Washington later in the day.

The admiral's brother was among the friends gathered by the pier. He is Albert H. Sims, a civil engineer with offices in this city.

More German U-Boats Prey of U. S. Destroyers

Subs Which Raided Allied Commerce in North Sea, Are Helpless Targets for Naval Guns Off Cape Charles —Destruction According to Orders

On Board the U. S. S. Rail (Observer's Boat, off the Virginia Capes, June 22)—Vestiges of the terror-striking power of the German undersea warfare went to an ignominious end at the hands of the United States navy today.

The former German submarine U-140 and UB-48, vessels which at one time cruised the North Sea, raiding allied commerce, today are lying at anchor sixty miles off Cape Charles, as helpless as the prey which they formerly hunted, waiting for the guns of American destroyers to send them to the bottom.

Today's destruction and target practice is in accordance with a decision reached by the conference of Ambassadors which provides that all of the former German submarines shall be at the bottom of the sea by July 1.

Admiral Jones in command of the Atlantic fleet, drew up a gray destroyer division to officiate at the burial of these sea raiders, which are tossing about in foreign waters, their rusty hulls a mute tribute to the powers that crushed the relentless ambition of the German war lords.

Although a destroyer division has been provided to give the death blow but two of the little gray fighters of the United States will open fire.

One destroyer has been designated as executioner for each U-boat. The sea hornets will approach the targets from not less than 5,000 yards and attack opening fire at a range of not less than three thousand yards.

The U-140 is 130 feet in length and the U-48 is 181 feet long.

The officers of the Atlantic fleet are watching today's practice with intense interest and making careful records of the time it will take for the destroyers to sink the U-boats in comparison with the time taken by air forces yesterday.

While official comment is withheld on yesterday's air attack on the U-117, naval officers were somewhat astonished at the accuracy of the aerial bombing for none of the bombs went wild.

Chicago, June 22.—With a cry, "you wronged me," Lucy Rosatti, aged 15, early today, waylaid Guy DePese, aged 48, a block from his home in Chicago Heights and shot him twice. DePese, the father of several children, died later in a hospital.

The wife of a girl, according to the story she told police, stepped from a doorway, directly into the path of DePese. Her cheeks were deathly pale and her eyes blazed with fury.

"You wronged me," she hissed, "and yesterday, you lied. Pray to God, Giuseppe, for now is your time to die."

Terror possessed the man and he screamed a desperate appeal to the girl to spare his life. But she instead, whipped a revolver from her dress and fired twice. The man dropped to the sidewalk. The girl then went to her home, a few doors away. She had waited for DePese all night.

Yesterday the girl went before a Chicago judge and complained that DePese had taken liberties with her, against her will. Brought into court, DePese denied this. He was released on $2,000 bond.

That he had not been kept in jail, coupled with DePese's denial, and what to her was dishonor, decided the girl to take the law—the law of her native Palermo—into her own hands.

"All of last night," she told police in broken English, "I waited for him—there in the doorway. Coward that he was, he did not return home. But this morning—ah, then I saw him coming, creeping, creeping down the street with the silent stealth that brings the dawn—trying to avoid seeing me. But he crept directly to me—and death."

"I am glad—happy, that I have done this. He wronged me."

ALLEGED SLAYER OF KABER ARRESTED

Salvatore Cola (center), photographed immediately after his arrest in Buffalo, New York, charged with the murder of Daniel Kaber, wealthy Cleveland publisher, who was killed almost two years ago. In connection with the death of Kaber, the late publisher's mother-in-law, the wife and stepdaughter are under arrest. According to District Attorney Moore, Cola admits stabbing Kaber twenty-four times.

"Yes, I Killed Him" Says Man Accused of Murder

Cleveland, June 22.—Salvatore Cola, indicted for the killing of Daniel F. Kaber, wealthy publisher, was arraigned before Judge Maurice Bernin this morning. An interpreter was called in to translate the charge into Italian.

When asked how he wished to plead, Cola replied in Italian: "Yes, I killed him."

A plea of not guilty was entered. Cola said he had no money and Judge Bernin will later appoint counsel to prepare his defense.

Cola was taken from the courtroom to the office of Prosecutor Edward C. Stanton, where he will confront Mrs. Eva Catherine Kaber and Mrs. Erminia Colavito, also charged with the crime.

"IDLE HOUSE" AT STATE PENITENTIARY DISGRACE TO OHIO DECLARES DR. BLAND

Columbus, Ohio, June 22.—The legislative committee probing conditions at the penitentiary may conduct a personal inspection at the big prison today or tomorrow. Subpoenas will be issued for a large number of witnesses to appear before the committee it was said.

Dr. Morton W. Bland, Columbus, who made a preliminary survey of the conditions told the committee that a psychiatrist is most needed at the penitentiary to examine and classify prisoners according to their mentality.

Advocating that the idle house be "blown up with dynamite," Dr. Bland said it is the "most disgraceful condition in and institution and is a disgrace and shock to the state of Ohio."

Declaring that "worst of all is the close association of the rabid criminal with the man who has just 'slipped,'" Dr. Bland said that a psychiatrist was needed to classify and segregate the prisoners.

Attorney General Price has ruled that the legislative committee has a legal right to probe conditions in the penitentiary.

JEALOUSY PROMPTS DOUBLE TRAGEDY IN SPRINGFIELD

Springfield, June 22.—Mrs. Cora Casey, 28, of Springfield, a sister of Mrs. Anna Sessler of Jamestown, was shot and killed by George Speary, 46, a jealous lover, at the home of her parents-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George Casey, 624 East street, Springfield, at noon Tuesday.

It is alleged that Mrs. Casey had been keeping company with Speary, her husband having disappeared several years ago, but had been driven to the home of her parents-in-law by another man in an automobile at noon Tuesday. Speary was enraged when he saw her with the other man, and declaring that she would not return in the automobile, he shot her four times with a .38 calibre revolver. Then going to his room at the Casey home, he shot himself once in the stomach, and walking to the yard, shot himself again in the head. Both died at the Springfield city hospital.

CHARGES FLUNG AT A. F. O. L. MEET

Denver, Colo., June 22.—Sensational charges, which may be aired on the floor of the convention of the American Federation of Labor and have an aftermath resulting in a rupture in labor's ranks have been injected into the fight between Samuel Gompers and John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, for the presidency of the federation.

Supporters of Lewis charged today that a "campaign of poisonous gas" is being conducted by the Gompers camp to discredit the miners' head.

At a secret conference of the delegates of the railroad unions last night, which lasted until early today, John H. Walker, president of the Illinois Federation of Labor, presented a series of charges against Lewis. They were of so serious a nature that Lewis and William Green, secretary of the miners' union and a member of the executive council of the federation, were summoned to the meeting. Lewis answered Walker's charges one by one. After a speech by Green, heretofore affiliated with Gompers, the conference unanimously gave Lewis a "vote of thanks and confidence."

BELFAST, ARMED CAMP AS ROYALTY ARRIVES

FINDS RIGHT ONE AFTER THREE TRY

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 22.—No. 1 was too old, cranky and settled in his ways; No. 2 was too small, too young, too fickle and fond of cabarets; No. 3 however is "everything a husband should be."

This is what Mrs. Gertrude Brown, 17, and pretty, charged with bigamy, told the presiding judge in morale court here today. She admitted that she had been thrice married without the formality of obtaining a divorce.

"I just love John to death," she told the judge. "I guess I'm through marrying."

Here's her marital history: Married Samuel Brown, 32 of Franklin, Mo., at Hilton, W. Va., April 1, 1919.

Married Frank Burkhardt, 22, 6626 Lorain Avenue, Cleveland, in August, 1920, at Jeffersonville, Ind.

Married John Sylvester, 26 of Pittsburgh, at Wheeling, W. Va., three months ago.

PRECAUTIONS TO SAFEGUARD KING AND QUEEN MADE

Royal Yacht, Closely Guarded, Arrives In Harbor Wednesday.

SOLDIERS ON GUARD

Ceremonies Mark Opening Of New Northern Ireland Parliament

Belfast, June 22.—"A new era is opening," King George told the Northern Ireland (Ulster) parliament today, in a speech formally inaugurating this new law-making body. The speech breathed the ardent wish that the attempt to solve the Irish problem now being made through the home rule bill would prove successful.

"For all who love Ireland as I do, with all my heart, this is a profoundly moving occasion in Irish history," said the king.

Belfast, June 22.—This city was an armed camp when King George and Queen Mary arrived here today to participate in the state opening of the new northern Ireland (Ulster) parliament. It was the first time in 19 years that King George had visited Belfast.

The royal yacht, Victoria and Albert, escorted by a squadron of royal warships, came into the harbor at gray dawn. The royal yacht was surrounded by a cordon of men of war while others patrolled the bay and waters outside. Belfast has always been loyal to the royal family during the turbulent agitations in Ireland. It took pains today to show its loyalty. The British flags fluttered from windows, roof tops and roof poles. The houses were festooned with bunting. The pictures of the king and queen were everywhere.

DISARMAMENT IS AIM OF MEETING NOW SUGGESTED

Premiers Would Invite U. S. Into Conference to Discuss Plan.

London, June 22.—The morning newspapers made no comment today upon the speeches of Premier Smuts of South Africa and Premier Hughes of Australia, urging Great Britain to invite the United States, Japan and France into conference for discussion of disarmament. The speeches were made at the imperial conference. The premiers declared they believed the moment had arrived for a movement towards limitation of naval armaments. The absence of comment in the morning press probably was explained by the lateness of the hour at which the communiqué containing the speeches was issued.

The speeches, especially that of Premier Smuts, made a profound impression in allied circles. Premier Smuts pointed out the danger of "imperialistic thinking" and said it was vitally necessary to keep in touch with the United States. He said that it had been the strongest policy of the British empire to make a race for armaments impossible. The most fatal mistake of all, he added, would be a contest for armaments with the United States. The American nation, he went on, "is closest to us in all human ties. The dominions look upon her (the United States) as the oldest of them."

In conclusion, the African premier said:

"America left our circle long ago, because of a great historical mistake. I am not sure but what a wise policy, after the great events through which we have passed recently, might not repair the effects of that great error and once more bring America into general co-operation with the British empire."

MEMBERSHIP DRIVE WILL BE STARTED BY AMERICAN LEGION

Will Make Effort To Bring Ohio Back To Third Place.

Columbus, 8, June 22.—A call to each American Legion post in Ohio to take part in a membership drive and bring the legion membership in Ohio back from fifth to third place where it once stood, has been issued by State Commander McQuigg.

"The earnest wish of our late commander, F. W. Galbraith, Jr., was for Ohio to lead the nation with 100,000 members," said commander McQuigg. "The greatest monument which we can erect to his memory is the development of an enormous membership in the Ohio department. It is just what he would ask if he could."

SIMS RESIGNS JOB ON STATE PAYROLL

Columbus, June 22.—Announcement was made today of the resignation effective July 1, of assistant state banking superintendent Howard M. Sims, Columbus. He will be succeeded by Frank R. Ambrose, of Bucyrus.

Sims who has been with the state banking department, 5 years starting as an examiner will become a national bank examiner in the Cleveland federal reserve district. Ambrose was assistant banking superintendent when U. S. Senator Willis was governor.

Never in the history of Ireland had such precautions been taken for the protection of royal guests. This city and suburbs were crammed with soldiers. The streets were literally filled with policemen and secret service agents were on every hand.

Soldiers Line Route

Every yard of the route from the pier to the city hall (a part of which has been set aside temporarily as the meeting place of parliament) was guarded by soldiers, who stood almost shoulder to shoulder. There were more than 10,000 troops on the field and it was believed that the police agents' and secret service men imported for the occasion totalled almost as many.

Scotland Yard and Dublin Castle, united in their safeguarding plans and secret service men were gathered from all parts of the British Isles for duty here.

The Victoria and Albert had made the trip across the Irish Sea from Holyhead without incident and in perfect safety.

When the king and queen came ashore, the royal salute went up from the cruisers and destroyers and the guns in the land batteries defending the harbor.

Met By Delegation

Before the landing of the king and queen, a delegation of Belfast citizens went on board the Victoria and Albert and greeted the king and queen in the name of Ulster province and the city of Belfast. It originally had been intended that representatives of other parts of Ireland should go on board the royal yacht, but at the last minute, the authorities decided it would be too dangerous and plans were rearranged.

After the ceremonies on ship board during which there was handshaking and a brief exchange of formalities, tenders were put out with the royal flag and a cheer went up from the local citizens gathered on the water front.

Throughout the early hours, while the ceremonies were in progress on the deck of the royal yacht, the police and detectives had been busy rounding up suspected Sinn Feiners and completing the precautions for the safety of the royal couple. Everyone suspected of republican sympathies was excluded from the streets through which the royal procession passed. The houses along the way were filled with policemen and soldiers. Picked troops occupied every strategic point. Even the roofs were patrolled. Every possible measure of safety was adopted.

Big Celebration

The trip from the pier to the city hall was made in a state coach drawn by white horses. The king and queen glanced about them as they rode along, as though they felt a great curiosity at being in Ireland, the land which has been Britain's chief seat of trouble and turbulence for so long. The people of Belfast, most of whom are loyalists and anti-home rulers, cheered and waved flags and hats and handkerchiefs and George and Mary bowed and smiled in answer to the greetings.

The Mighty Want Ad

Classified, or "want" advertising, as it is sometimes called, is advertising to supply a definite want. Like all advertising, its purpose is to bring buyer and seller together, but the person who reads classified advertisements generally has a definite want to be filled. There are no limitations to classified advertising—it is the great clearing house of human desires. Farms, homes, automobiles, machinery, live stock, patents, furs, jewelry, furniture, fixtures, office supplies, stocks, bonds, building material, musical instruments, poultry supplies, boats, stores, businesses, are bought and sold, flats, houses, and rooms rented, plain "jobs" and high-salaried "positions" secured by classified advertising.

Lost pocketbooks and relatives are restored, partners "for better or worse" have been secured. Country estates costing thousands have been sold through classified advertising, farms and ranches worth into the hundreds of thousands have been sold through advertisements that cost a few dollars. Land and colonization companies, railroads, state boards of immigration, even governments have sold vast quantities of land and secured settlers by classified advertising. An $80,000 ranch was sold by spending $25.00. Twenty two thousand acres of Colorado land was sold in 40 to 160 acre tracts, at a total expense of $2,200—10c per acre. A classified advertisement costing less than a dollar has secured a salesman who has made thousands of dollars each year for his company. Several concerns in Chicago do a business of a million dollars a year through agents secured by classified advertising, who sell their goods from house to house.

These are unusual examples, but anyone at all familiar with conditions knows that classified advertising is daily securing positions for thousands in every section of the country, is the means of the employer getting in touch in 24 hours with a shipping clerk or general manager; is renting and selling real estate in almost unthought of amounts. All this is done by little classified advertisements. This vast business can be done at such small expense because the people who read classified advertisements have a definite want and the advertiser is offering something to supply that want.

There is no use trying to create a demand through classified advertising, the demand for one thing is already there in the mind of the classified reader or he would not be reading classified advertisements, and he reads just what he wants.

The newspapers recognize how valuable classified advertising is to them not only because of the revenue it brings but because of the tremendous good will that is developed through carrying thousands of these classified advertisements and bringing such great numbers of individuals into profitable contact with each other.

To aid their readers the modern newspaper carefully classifies each advertisement under the proper heading and an index is printed at the beginning to show the readers the exact location of the advertisement on the subject in which they are interested.

Classified advertising is the great public market. Concerns and individuals find many occasions when they can save time and effort by running these small advertisements.

Classified advertising is the great public market place—and in order to make this department of The Evening Gazette and The Morning Republican more efficient the newest and most modern system known has been installed, which assures both readers and advertisers the best possible service in classified advertising.

BANKS ARE ASKED TO BE LIBERAL TO FARMERS OF COUNTRY

Washington. — The American farmer must be kept in business on a paying basis for the prosperity of American industry and business depends vitally upon the ability of the farmer to produce his products at a profit. At no time in history has this conviction been so strong as now. Government officials who direct fiscal policies and exercise control over the banking system agree that agriculture must have its share of bank credit advantages. To this end the credit bars have been lowered, as a partial means of putting the farmer on his feet.

Governor W. P. G. Harding, of the Federal Reserve Board, is keenly alive to the farmers' needs in the present farming crisis. He recognizes that all business has lagged because of depression in agriculture, and the disastrous effects of the price reactions upon the producers generally. Governor Harding is confident that new measures which the Reserve Board has approved to lower the rediscount rate at reserve banks will greatly benefit the farmer.

"Agriculture is the basic and fundamental industry," says Harding. "Upon its fruits depend the lives of those engaged in other industries."

"The farmer is a great consumer of manufactured products. Anything that affects the farmers' buying power is soon reflected in the business of the merchant and manufacturer. Conversely, depression in manufacturing and other lines of business is reflected in reduced demand for farm products." Governor Harding contended that farming must be made remunerative or the people will see American farming languish and ruinous consequences for the whole nation.

Bankers throughout the country have been asked to give the farmer every possible measure of aid in producing and marketing his crops on terms sufficiently profitable to justify him staying in business. Bankers, seeing the handwriting on the wall, are expected by the Government to respond with more liberal aid.

TOWNSHIPS IN CHAMPAIGN CO., ARE DISSATISFIED

St. Paris, June 22.—Angered because state funds for highway improvement in Champaign county, which it is alleged has been promised to be used on the Piqua and Urbana main market road, have been diverted from this purpose due to "the attitude of the county seat," it has been suggested by an influential citizen of St. Paris that a petition be circulated in Jackson, Johnson and Adams townships, asking that they be annexed to Miami county where they would get recognition once in a while.

SOCIETY

ENTERTAINS WOMEN OF BAPTIST CHURCH TUESDAY
Mrs. W. E. Boring was a delightful hostess, Tuesday afternoon, when she entertained the members of the First Baptist Church at her home on West Second street.

The guests were entertained on the rear lawn of the Boring home, where delicious refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed. At the regular business meeting held, it was decided to hold an all day picnic at the home of Mrs. W. M. Hardman, at Yellow Springs, in July. A collection for missionary work was taken during the course of the afternoon.

BRIDE-ELECT HONORED AT AFFAIR.

EASTERN STAR HOLDS ANNUAL CUTTING AT KILKARE PARK

Two hundred members of the Eastern Star, and their friends enjoyed the annual picnic of the order held at Kil Kare Tuesday.

In spite of the rain that came up in the evening the amusement and activities planned for the day were carried out according to schedule and the affair turned out to be one of the most enjoyable ever given by the organization.

A number of contests were conducted during the afternoon. In an efficiency contest for women, Mrs. Howard Norris, was the first prize winner and Mrs. Roy C. Hayward, won second prize. A capable contest conducted for the men, required each contestant to open packages of women's wearing apparel and put them on in the proper order and place. Emil Eichman was the first winner and J. D. Allen won second prize.

Twelve men and twelve women took part in a relay ball game. The first game resulted in a tie, and each side won one of the next two making it necessary to play a fourth which the men's team won. Five teams participated in the musical peanut hunt, the team captained by Mrs. Claude Lynn winning, and the team captained by Mrs. William Fettes getting the booby prize. In a milk drinking contest, J. D. Allen won first prize and Emil Eichman, second prize, and in a contest in which the men attempted to hang a part of child's rompers up correctly while blindfolded Emil Eichman was awarded first prize and J. D. Allen, was given the booby prize.

Other contests were conducted for the younger people in the party. Owing to the rain, the picnickers served their lunches on the pavilion veranda, and after the meal, enjoyed dancing.

MOVIE MEN WIN INITIAL SKIRMISH IN SPRINGFIELD

Springfield, June 22.—Acting Judge Thomas McCormick in Springfield, Tuesday, quashed thirteen affidavits which had been filed against moving picture theater owners, by citizens acting for the Clark County Ministerial Association, charging violation of the Sabbath, for operating theaters on Sunday.

The affidavits were quashed on the grounds of legal objections raised by attorneys for the movie men, and the legal council for the ministers announced that new affidavits, meeting these objections will be filed immediately. The action of Judge McCormick is believed to give movie men the first round of the fight to keep the theaters open on Sunday.

Movie men claim that a motion picture show is not a theatrical performance, but only the picture of one, and will use this argument in their defense, when the cases come to trial.

Boston.—A letter has been received here by Superintendent of Police Michael Crowley from four cowboys, who have absolutely no faith in Kipling's contention that "East is East and West is West, and never the twain shall meet." The missive follows:

"This letter will no doubt surprise you. We are four lonesome cowboys in search of girls for wives. We are on a lonesome ranch and heard that you could find us a wife. We are J. W. Smith, Leonard Jones, Dave Miller and J. Murphy. Hoping for a reply soon, the Lonesome Four, No. 401 West Broadway, Brownwood, Texas."

WHY DOES SHE LOOK SO OLD

This question has been asked about many a woman under thirty, who has married and taken upon herself the cares of a house and young children.

When a woman is suffering from female weakness, bearing down pains, head and back ache and nervous irritation, it is well nigh impossible to attend to her duties and retain the charm and freshness of youth. Must she then struggle on toward the inevitable nervous breakdown or premature old age?

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has saved many women from such a fate. Thousands of grateful letters from such women testify to the merits of this wonderful root and herb medicine for female ill.

SALE OF CRACKERS TABOO UNTIL THREE DAYS BEFORE FOURTH

Police are warning merchants who sell fire crackers, not to place the pyrotechnics on sale until three days before the Fourth of July.

The police order is issued in order to avoid the usual pre-Fourth display of fire crackers, that annoys citizens sometimes for weeks before Independence Day. Merchants, co-operating with the city administration, will do much to prevent this nuisance this year, by refusing to sell the crackers until three days before the Fourth, police say.

Possibilities of the city commission passing an ordinance at the meeting, Thursday night, making it unlawful to shoot off fire crackers in the city, as a means of putting a stop to the nuisance of the noise-making long before the Fourth, are good, according to police. Such an action would prevent the sale of pyrotechnics and it is believed that dealers with stocks on hand will curb the sale until the proper time, rather than permit an ordinance stopping the sale altogether to become a law.

N. C. R. TO BE HOST TO XENIANS NEXT TUESDAY IN DAYTON

Through the Xenia Quoit Club, the National Cash Register Company, of Dayton, extends an invitation to all Xenia business men and their wives, to be the guests of that company, next Tuesday.

The Dayton Club will conduct a special tour of inspection of the N. C. R. plant at ten o'clock Tuesday morning, the trip through the plant lasting until noon. The local delegation will then be taken to the Dayton Country Club, where dinner will be provided and where they will be entertained during the afternoon. Match quoit games will probably be played. All Xenia business men are included in the invitation and the crowd can not be too large, it is said, as from 1,000 to 1,500 visitors can easily be taken care of for a plant inspection at the N. C. R.

Through the Xenia Quoit Club, the invitation was extended to the Chamber of Commerce, and all business men whether members of the latter organization or not are invited. People expecting to make the trip should notify T. Dales Kyle, of the Quoit Club at the Citizens National Bank, as early as possible. It is understood that a similar invitation has been issued to other cities in this section.

ARRANGEMENTS MADE FOR FALL FESTIVAL DISTRICT ON TUESDAY

Arrangements for the district for the Festival to be held here this fall under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce were made at a conference of the local committee with Frank E. Aid, secretary of the Festival Production Company of Chillicothe, who was in this city, Tuesday.

Secretary F. J. Slackford of the Chamber of Commerce will have a map in a few days showing the location of each merchant's space and any merchant desiring space should see Mr. Slackford at the Chamber of Commerce, as soon as possible, those in charge say.

Mr. Aid told the local committee that all twelve cities which his company has booked have oversubscribed their quota for space and that each sage blocked by walls of honeycomb, day the company received letters from filled with several hundred pounds of merchants in the cities where they honey.

are going to hold festivals, wanting to know the best way to make demonstrations in their booths. A letter will be mailed soon to all those who have purchased space here, informing them just what to do with their booths in order to make them attractive.

It was also announced by Mr. Aid that the Production Company has secured the Marvelous Mills Elephant Act for a free attraction. This act is considered the most daring and highest priced act in the country, it is said. "We also have two other free acts which are worthy of note," Mr. Aid said. "The trained dog and pony act will surely please all the children and the fancy dance act will furnish amusement to both young and old."

"Xenia will have the largest crowd in its history and you will see the crowds increasing in numbers each day as the festival progresses for those who attend the first part of the week will be our best advertisers. It is up to the local merchants to make as good a display as possible as it will add to the attractiveness and will also help advertise Xenia," the secretary said.

DOLLAR DAY DRAWS LARGE CROWDS TO STORES WEDNESDAY

One of the biggest Dollar Days in the history of this annual trade-drawing feature, is the way Xenia merchants spoke of the 1921 Dollar Day, Wednesday.

A bargain-seeking crowd that thronged the streets early in the morning, did not hesitate long in packing Xenia stores in search of the many bargains that are offered at special prices on merchandise counters.

Merchants, gaining brief respite from the rush of bargain-hunters at noon, Wednesday, proclaimed the day the best in several years. Well advertised through the medium of the Gazette and Republican and through booster bills distributed through the county, advising people to look for bargain attractions in the newspapers, the crowd came in early to avoid the heat and then remained long to avoid missing a bargain.

Some merchants claimed the day was better than ever before. Others said it was just as good. But a glance at Xenia streets in the business section or a glimpse into the interior of the stores of merchants offering attractive bargains told its own story.

Another Dollar Day has been set down as a merchandising success.

TO ENTER COURSE FOR SECRETARIES

Miss Louise B. Shaffer, secretary of the Greene County Chapter of the Red Cross, is leaving next Saturday for Cleveland, Ohio, where she will enter a six week's institute course for Red Cross secretaries, to be held in that city from June 27 to August 6.

During Miss Shaffer's absence the work of the Red Cross office will be in charge of Miss Agnes Ballentyne. Upon her return, the County Chapter is planning to put on a County-Wide Red Cross program.

Miss Helen Evers, Red Cross Public Health Nurse will take her vacation during the month of July. Both workers will return in time for the Red Cross display to be held at the annual Greene County Fair.

are engaged in the hard task of getting right of way for the right way. The simple logic of the chiropractic adjustment is irresistible once it is understood. That is why in less than a score of years, it has made such marvelous strides.

Why a chiropractic push in the back is good for stomach trouble is hard to understand, unless you stop to think, that the stomach nerve comes from the spine, and a disordered joint of the spine causes pressure on the stomach nerve or any other nerve that may be in its way. The chiropractic adjustment removes the pressure and Nature restores normal strength and health.

OVERLAND & WILLYS KNIGHT CARS

Why is the Overland Four the best low priced car on the market today?

ECONOMY! We have made four mileage tests with four different new machines—average mileage per gallon twenty-six miles. This wonderful little car is equally as economical on tires and oil.

COMFORT! Though the actual wheel base of this car is only one hundred inches, its overhanging spring suspension gives it the easy riding qualities of a large car with one hundred and twenty inch wheel base.

QUALITY! The material and parts that go into this car are of the very finest quality. It is now a hand assembled job throughout. Every fault found with this car during the eighteen months it has been on the market, has been absolutely corrected.

Drop in and let us show you how good it really is.

Coupe $1000.00 f. o. b. Toledo.

FIVE RULES FOR BUYING TIRES

1. Any of the standard makes are good tires. Select the brand you hear most about that delivers long mileage uniformly, tire after tire.
2. Don't be misled by looks. They have nothing to do with miles delivered on your car. Buy a safe, practical, non-skid, that prevents slipping the most. The Miller Geared-to-the-Road is now the nation's choice for big cars or small.
3. Select a tire you would buy the second, third and fourth times, keep your service record uniform. A complete tire service on all four wheels is the modern and economical way to buy.
4. Deal with an honest merchant—one who doesn't recommend tires on the basis of discount to him. Your future patronage is worth more to the man who obtains for you the best he can buy.
5. Beware of tire sales. Remember, in the end, you don't get any more than you pay for. Getting adjustments is an expensive way for you to try and get even with the game.

SIMS' PUNISHMENT, IF ANY, EXPECTED TO BE BUT MILD REBUKE.

Admiral Sims is not to be degraded. He will not be removed from the presidency of the Naval War College. Neither dismissal from the service nor punishment of any other severe character is to be meted out to him. Sinn Fein clamor for his head and for his humiliation will remain unanswered. At the most, a departmental reprimand for his "calculated indiscretion" in London will be administered. It even may not take the form of a published chastisement. The whole incident may be allowed to blow over as suddenly as it arose. Whatever disciplinary measure is resorted to will take the form of an admonition designed to keep Admiral Sims and all other naval men in future from skating on the perilous ice of national or international politics.

These statements, while emanating from no official quarter, represent the consensus in the highest congressional, naval and public quarters. It would be impossible to exaggerate the remarkable reversal of sentiment in Washington on the Sims' affair. A week ago Secretary Denby's action in peremptorily calling the admiral to account was applauded and approved. Today, on almost all hands, Mr. Denby's procedure is assailed as impetuous and ill-advised. He is criticized as having succumbed to the terrorism of vote-trucking Senators facing re-election by constituencies where the Sinn Fein movement is supposed to have special support.

The Administration is known to be concerned by the nationwide dimensions the Sims episode has achieved. The President formally holds himself aloof from it. It is asserted it "has not even been mentioned" in Cabinet meetings. The occasion is an ideal one for exemplification of the Harding policy of letting heads of executive departments "run their own shows."

MARCH'S RETIREMENT RELIEVES SITUATION GROWING OUT OF PERSHING'S ADVANCEMENT.

Major General Peyton C. March, chief of staff of the United States Army during the greater part of the World War, will retire November 1 at his own request, nine years prior to reaching sixty-four, the statutory age of retirement.

General March will virtually leave the service on July 1, when General John J. Pershing takes his place as chief-of-staff, because he has asked for and has been granted leave of four months beginning on that date.

The retirement of General March ends for the Harding Administration a puzzling problem which plagued the existence of Newton D. Baker during the last few months that he held office as Secretary of War. The commissioned personnel of the army has for some time been divided into the March and Pershing groups. Mr. Baker was the active friend of General March and attempted to make him a full general at the same time that Congress accorded the honor to General Pershing. He assigned General Pershing to some rather routine duties under the Army Reorganization Act, while retaining General March as chief-of-staff.

The present Administration has reversed the situation, and had he stayed in the service General March would have been one of the corps area commanders under General Pershing. The value of General March as an officer was not belittled by the Harding Administration, but it was thought fitting that some recognition should be given to General Pershing for his work as the victorious field leader of the American forces.

AUSTRIA WOULD UNITE WITH GERMANY AT ONCE BUT FOR FRANCE.

Extracts from Col. E. M. House's Vienna letter to Public Ledger, June 19: "Of the future of Austria itself there are many opinions, most of them pessimistic. No one sees clearly the way out. At present there is an overwhelming desire to become part of the German republic. This desire is born of despair and the failure to find a solution of their many difficulties. When all is said and done, Prussia still dominates Germany and will probably always be the controlling factor in any confederation of German States."

"French opposition to a union with Germany is the recent factor in holding that movement in check. If France should give her consent, immediate action would be taken, even if regret were to follow later."

"One of the most interesting things happening in Austria is the feeding of some 400,000 children by the American Relief Association. This benevolent action of the American people has created a profoundly favorable impression throughout Europe. It is reminding evidence that we have not abandoned Europe in the time of her dire distress. The work is being done in such an efficient way that even the mere machinery of the organization reflects credit. Contributors at home may feel assured that their funds have been wisely expended and that the good that has been done will extend to the coming generation and beyond."

"It can be safely asserted that nowhere in Europe are Americans so popular as in Austria, and solely because of the great charity which has been given impetus and direction by Herbert Hoover."

RIPPLING RHYMES CHINESE CUSTOMS.

In China, great and happy land, the doctor's only in demand when folks are feeling fine; he's paid to keep his patients hale; if they fall sick he draws no kale, and must take in his sign. And so we see him on the jump, to cure the measles or the mump, or other fell disease; it doesn't pay to have men sick, so he prescribes his powdered brick, his pills and healing teas. And if the patient cashes in, the heirs kick up a frightful din that indicates their ire; they camp upon the doctor's trail, and ride that learned man on a rail, and set his house afire. And in our land, where culture reigns, when we fall sick, with pea green pains, we call the nearest doc; when we are well we care no whoop for all the potions in his coop, for all the pills in stock. The doctor knows we have a wad, a bundle opulent and broad, he knows we'll pay his bills; and he would more than human be if he were not inclined to see how long we'll take his pills. We put temptation in his way; why should he heal us in a day or even in a year? Why should he show his smoothest curve, and toil and strain his every nerve to put our works in gear? The Chinese plan is much the best, in fact, the peoples of the West might learn much from Cathay; her methods often are so sane they make our finest schemes look vain, like pipe dreams gone astray.

AN EDITORIAL ON ADVERTISING

Mothers are wise by instinct. The mother who has never even seen the outside of a school house knows enough to warn her child against taking candy from a stranger.

Why? Because a stranger's candy is a doubtful quantity. It may be all right. Fifty to one it isn't. Fifty to one it is a ruse. Ten to one it is unsafe to eat.

Acquaintance means all the difference in the world—with candy, with people with brands. Acquaintance gives us knowledge, surety, confidence. Without that sustaining triune there can be no satisfactory exchange.

Advertised goods are like candy from a friend. We know their source. We know their pledges. We know, furthermore—even the most naïve among us—that people do not air information about themselves, their products, unless it is creditable. If they are ashamed to speak out, they cover the facts with "impenetrable silence."

Advertising has made it possible for men and women all over the world to buy on faith. Alaska, Timbuctu, Teheran. It is all the same. If you know the goods, know the label, know the guarantee behind the claim, it matters not whether the merchant selling them has long hair or an unpronounceable name. You buy and you are satisfied.

The advertisements in the daily papers are the finger prints of opportunity. They enable you to trace advantage to its source, to go after and get products whose price and worth mean gain to you. They put you in touch with certain benefits.

Advertised goods are their own salesmen. You have only to think of something you care to buy to prove it.

Say you want a hair brush. You have read about one in your newspaper or magazine. You get the one you know about. And you follow this same course with all articles you purchase.

The hide-and-seek won't tell its name order of merchandise has no appeal for you. You mistrust it. To you it is like the stranger's candy, something to be declined—left alone.

Merchants who advertise persistently create a neighborly feeling in their readers—a feeling which soon develops a voice of recommendation.

No one in the world is either awkward or hesitating when conviction is compelling their speech. And no surer proof of the strength of advertising to influence sales favorably can be found than in the everyday (unsolicited) word-of-mouth praise buyers mete out to advertised goods they are using.

Advertising is like sunlight. It shows us the way. It leads us direct to purchasing paths which have been cleared of undesirable debris.

If we want to know what, if we want to know where, if we want to know how, if we want to know why—Advertisement will give us the answer in testable facts. They are the plots of intelligence.

Health Talks

By John B. Huber, AMMD

THE FEAR OF GERMS

Many have jumped to the conclusion that all germs are disease-engendering whereas, in point of fact, the majority of them are quite salutary, and not a few of them indeed are absolutely essential to healthful human existence.

Some germs are the scavengers which convert dead and decomposing matter into constituents essential for plant growth. Were these workers to go on strike for 24 hours, putrefaction would be universal and corresponding deadly, and most animal life would be unlivable and quite destroyed.

Some other bacteria are necessary to bread making. Others give to butters their delicious and peculiar flavors. Others ripen cheese (though they sometimes stay a stifling overtime on the job—it has been asserted that in the late war the Germans saluted such a kind of cheese as being of superior rank). Others play their most welcome part in the manufacture of linen, in the curing of tobacco, in tanning, in the evolution of useful acids.

Then there are very intrinsic differences in virulence among the pathogenic or disease-producing germs. Some are comparatively innocuous, such as the bacterium found in pimples. Grading from this come all degrees of pathogenicity until we reach an extreme in the deadly streptococcus, which produces septicemia.

Besides we must differentiate regarding the various modes of infection—the various ways in which germs gain access to the body. Thus there is infection by direct contact, as when one is bitten by a rabid dog, or as

when a boy gets the tetanus bacillus from dirt into his wounded hand on the glorious fourth, by indirect contact, through clothing, bedding, rugs and the like which may have been worn or used by, say, a scarlet fever sufferer; or infection by the intermediation of flies, mosquitoes or other insects (dysentery or malaria); or airborne infection (tuberculosis) or ingestion infection (cholera and typhoid fever).

The differences in duration of time and the extent to which one has been in the company of the sufferer, must also be considered. Measles, for example, may ensue upon the most transitory exposure; while, on the other hand, tuberculosis will not be contracted unless intimacy with a consumptive has been close, frequent and prolonged, and this is even more true than leprosy.

Finally, we are to take into account the predisposition. Two factors must obtain in every infectious disease. The presence of the specific germ and the predisposition. By the latter is meant the weakening of the body by poverty, starvation, alcoholism or any other agency by which the organs and tissues are rendered susceptible to the microbic attack.

We have been vouchsafed a whole lot of knowledge concerning germs. It is now essential to attain wisdom—to discern what is really to be feared, and how and to what degree; to make right judgments, and then to decide upon what steps must be taken for a rational prophylaxis. Thus would a great deal of foolish and modifying pathophobia (fear of disease) be avoided.

Today's Talk

by George Matthew Adams

I am sure that no words of mine are able to take from your heart the loneliness that has crowded out the laughter that was so recently there. But I sorrow with you. The love that I had for her beautiful and happy soul I give to you who loved her—and who now miss her so.

I can understand a little, for I have always wanted a little girl to love, because she never came with her laughter—I miss her. I think of her as she might have been. But you think of the one who was so dear to you as she was.

I have thought of you through your days and nights and wished that I might comfort you just a little.

But as the lovely sunset must be felt as well as seen, so are words of sympathy colorless and gray to one who has had the little sweetheart of his heart taken away. One must be a Father and Mother in one to understand adequately.

The best that I can do is to loan to you some of the "beautiful tall angels" that have been so good to me.

And ask them to stay pretty close to you.

You are much to me. Your fine and generous spirit is a constant inspiration to me. Your fame and success in the world are links of my own happiness, that make the world much more splendid.

The sweetness of the smiles that are now stilled will go out through your noble influence to bigger lands and to more people—and the scent of the newer fragrance will be felt deeper than ever.

The song of your heart will radiate into sunnier heavens!

Her play was so happy. So you mustn't begrudge God having her in His garden—playing where the flowers are always blooming.

Remember that love is melting all around her—where she is.

DINNER STORIES

Father (to Sammy, coming home in a bedraggled condition)—Great Scot! how you look!

Sammy—Yes, pa, I fell in a mud hole.
Father—What! and with your new pants on.
Sammy—Yes, I didn't have time to take them off.

The school principal had been busy all day selecting children from the various classes to do some special work. She was very tired and also very much preoccupied when the janitor entered her office. In response to her mechanical nod he began:

"Miss Blank, that crossing out there is dangerous. If they don't send us a traffic officer some of the children in this school are going to get killed."

She had not really heard his speech, for he was always complaining, so she made no answer. And then he repeated this assertion with some emphasis, adding, "They are going to get killed out there—some of our children."

She had caught the last phrase, and mechanically, after her day of classification, said: "Then I had better pick out the ones I prefer for that."

"Why is Cyril Lapitup ostracized in the colony?"
"Oh, the despicable fellow was caught with two empty pint flasks and a small funnel on him at the Bestcellars' party."

"Well, that's enough to try the patience of Job!" exclaimed the country minister, as he threw aside the local paper.

"Why, what's the trouble, dear?" asked his wife.
"Last Sunday I preached from the text, 'Be ye, therefore, steadfast,'" answered the good man, "but the printer makes it read, 'Be ye there for breakfast.'"

The railroad official invited the stern citizen to communicate his troubles.

"I want you to give orders," demanded the visitor, "that the engineer of the express which passes through Elm Grove at 11:55 be restrained from blowing his whistle on Sunday morning."

"Impossible!" exploded the official. "What prompts you to make such a ridiculous request?"

"Well, you see," explained the citizen, in an undertone, "our pastor preaches until he hears the whistle blow and that confounded express was twenty minutes late last Sunday."

Moving picture operators, disgusted by the demands that are being made on them by their stars, threaten to go into stores, factories and lunch rooms for talent to take their places. Well, they ought to experience no difficulty in the matter, for, believe you us, dearie, you know it yourself, there's a lotta us girls at owny have to be give a chanet tuh make them four-flushin' scream vamps look like a Cox minority in a Republican year, ain't it th' truth?

THE MARKET BASKET

Hot weather is here which means if we are to keep well we must change our foods—not, please, that we must eat less food. The problem is, I think, exactly the opposite to that. We must plan to see that our meals are so attractive and appetizing that our family has sufficient nourishment to combat fatigue and nerve strain of the hot days.

Of course, we should use less heavy meats and rich gravies, less fats—such as bacon, butter, cream, and fat meats. Appetite tells us this but appetite does not always prove such a good guide.

You Always Need Food
Too many of us in the Summer time drink quantities of iced tea in the afternoon if we are at home, or drop in one soda fountain after another if we are downtown, until we are unable to eat anything for dinner. A few days of this and our undernourished bodies will commence to fatigue easily. A great many cases of heat exhaustion can be traced straight to inanition.

Cut down the starches and increase the fruits and vegetables. Use cheese and fish frequently in place of meat. Have the table attractive and dainty. Use flowers for decoration, but see that they are fresh. It is bad psychology to have them wilted and drooping.

Strawberries, blackberries, raspberries and cherries will be plentiful this month. Use them while they last, both at breakfast and in the place of cooked desserts at dinner—but are not as wholesome as the berries. Fresh vegetables are plentiful. Pineapples are in prime condition, tiful, homegrown and consequently cheap.

Use Mushrooms

New mushrooms are coming in and for company dinners a few fresh mushrooms add greatly to the elegance of a dish and are not costly, when you consider that a half pound will season a good-sized dish of chicken, and a quarter-pound will be quite enough for a pint of sauce.

Parsley and fresh green peppers add a great deal to the lighter meat dishes.

Later in the month serve broiled tomatoes, fried eggplant or squash in place of eggs for breakfast. Chafing-dish luncheons are attractive and are very helpful these hot days. Creamed, chipped beef, chicken a la king, crab meat in any number of attractive dishes, that can be prepared quickly and easily in a good chafing dish.

Use Simple Salads

Serve simple salads with French dressing. Avoid heavy meat salads mixed with mayonnaise dressing during the hot months. Fruit cocktails are a welcome change from hot soup. Good combinations are pineapple, banana and lemon; strawberry and orange, raspberries and currants, cherries alone.

Bright gold braid is featured trimming on many dark blue coat dresses.

Fluffy tulle gowns are shown for the benefit of the bridesmaid.

Black is still considered the formal, most elegant and dressy color.

Ribbon trimming is the rage just now in Paris.

Cherries, fruit and foliage embellish most effectively some of the prettiest "dressy" hats. The foliage encircles the crown, while the bunches of fruit hang as low as possible on each side.

The new blouses are of unequal length—longer on the sides than in the front.

"The 'backless' gown seems quite 'passe,' for which let us all be thankful. It was as unfeminine as it was, as a rule, unbecoming.

Coats are much straighter and have departed altogether from the loose lines of the dolman.

Styles BY LENORE

Fresh as her burden of flowers and light as her filmy tulle hat, is the exquisite frock she wears. The material she chose is crepe de chine, and she trimmed it with thread lace of a cobwebby texture, enforced on each side of the border by a triple row of fine self-cord. The bodice, while cut close, is fitted with ease, and the fluffy bouffant skirt curves out in the approved fashion of some of the later frocks, the effect being here accomplished by the rows of cording. And note the amusing little puffs which serve as sleeves! Of course the color is white, for is not this the season of commencement, and class days, and bridesmaids, and well— isn't it summer? However, if one simply must have a black dress that one can count on for dinner, and theatre, and all-around dress-up wear way on even into the Fall, why this is just the style for a fashionable, yet economical frock.

What Paris Is Wearing

Poke bonnets are charming and picturesque and in consequence prove often the wisest choice for bridesmaids.

Calico is used for a number of quaint summer frocks. Calico, combined with linen, makes attractive garden or porch dresses.

Soft black Chantilly lace is charming over white satin. This combination makes adorable evening gowns.

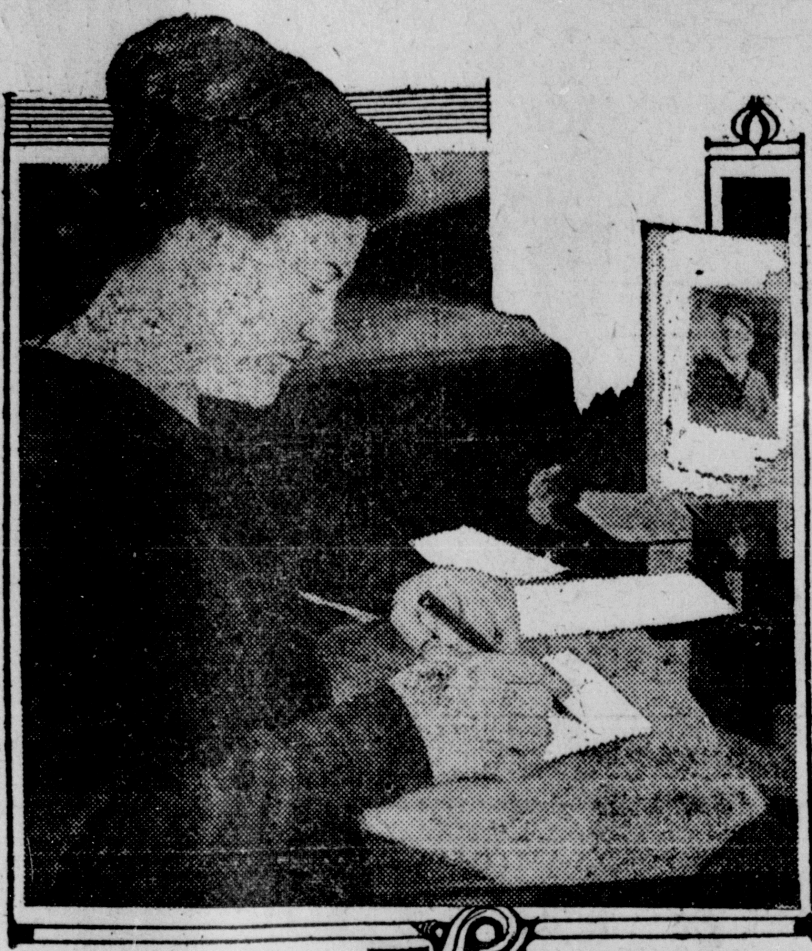

Smartness may be won by sharp contrast of black and white. Very chic is a new coat of black Canton crepe combined and piped with white Canton crepe.

Very smart, the new sports suits having brightly colored jackets with white skirts trimmed with wide bands of the colored material so as to match the coat.

Attractive afternoon Summer dresses will be made of printed chiffon. This new chiffon is very striking, decorated with huge flowers and queer butterflies worked out on a rather dark background.

SISTER OF LATE MAYOR MACSWINEY OF CORK WILL SPEAK IN DAYTON

Mary MacSwiney

Xenia sympathizers with the movement for Irish independence are planning to attend mass meeting Miss Mary MacSwiney, sister of the late Lord Mayor Terence MacSwiney of Cork, will address in Dayton on Thursday evening, June 30th.

Miss MacSwiney, who was constantly at Terence MacSwiney's bedside in Brixton Prison, London, from the time of his incarceration there by the British up to the hour of his death from starvation several weeks later, is now making a speaking tour of Ohio, under the auspices of the American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic.

During the six months that Miss MacSwiney has been in America, she has spoken in practically every large city of the country. In addition to having been received in audience by President Harding, she has addressed fully a score of state legislatures in behalf of her plea for official recognition by the United States of the Irish Republic. She is said to be a most forceful logical speaker.

PUTTING UP THE PINEAPPLE

To Can Pineapple by the Cold Pack Method (requested by Mrs. E. J.): Hold the pineapple by the green top and cut it into slices. It is easier to pare these slices than to pare the whole pineapple. Remove the eyes. Cut into cubes of the desired size. Put these cubes into a wire basket or into a piece of cheesecloth and lower them into enough boiling water to cover; put the cover on the kettle and let them "blanch" in this way (under steadily boiling water) for 5 minutes. Then remove at once and hold the cheesecloth for a moment under cold running water (never let it soak in cold water, as this impairs its delicate flavor.)

Now place the cubes at once in hot, sterilized jars, and pour over them a medium-thin Sirup made by adding 3 quarts of sugar to 2 quarts of water and letting it boil for 5 minutes. You may use the water in which the pineapple was blanched, in making this sirup, as it contains much of the pineapple flavor. (The blanching water of all other fruits except the pineapple cannot be used because it contains objectionable acids that must be discarded; but we blanch the pineapple primarily to soften the hard fibre, so there is no reason why this water cannot be used for sirup.)

After pouring in the sirup to within 1-2 inch of the jar-top, adjust the rubber rings (which have been dipped into hot water), put on sterilized glass tops, and "partially seal"; then put your jars into your wash-boiler canner (filled with boiling water which will come two inches over the jar-tops) and sterilize for 30 minutes.

Remove from canner, completely seal and invert to test for leaks. Take care that no draughts strike the hot jars, or they may crack. In filling them, let them stand on a clothing wrung out of very hot water.

Straw-berry-Pineapple Conserve: 2 cups shredded pineapple, 2 cups strawberries, granulated sugar. Cook the shredded pineapple in only just enough water to cover and when it is tender add the strawberries to it; continue to cook until the strawberries are soft. Then measure the hot fruit and add 3-4 as much sugar as fruit. Return to the preserving kettle and simmer until it falls in very heavy drops from a spoon. Pour into hot, sterilized glasses and cover when cold with paraffine. (Fine for a guest supper.)

The entire course consists of twenty practical lessons—one hundred pages filled with the valuable information—heretofore taught only in domestic science schools, it is said.

This book, is priced at $2.00 per copy and it is practically free to every interested housewife.

THE U. S. USCO TREAD

Here is the U. S. Usco Tread, with a long-established standard of service among motorists who have an eye to value, as well as to price. While selling for less than the other tires in the U. S. Fabric line, the Usco has earned a reputation for quality and dependable economy which is not exceeded by any tire in its class.

Which one of your neighbors gets the best mileage out of his tires?

EVERY once in a while you hear a motorist say as he kicks a rear tire with an admiring foot, "there's a lucky tire!" Give him a chance and he'll tell you all about it. And then you'll find that what he calls "luck" is simply his first experience with a quality standard tire.

It all comes to this—buy a U. S. Tire anywhere in this country and you get definite, predictable value for your money no matter what weight car you drive.

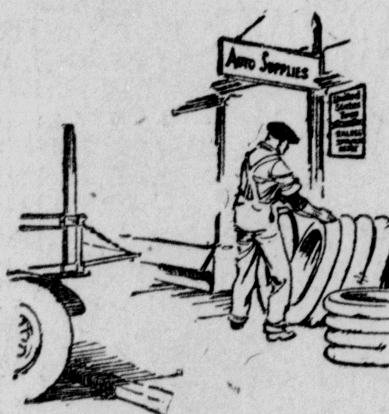

The man who has been guessing his way through "overstocks," "discontinued lines," "job lots" and the like, will find it refreshing to talk with the local U. S. Tire dealer who is concentrating on a full, completely sized line of U. S. Tires.

For the first time he will hear some straight quality tire facts—and get the difference between chance and certainty in tire buying.

The U. S. Tires he sees in stock are fresh, live tires. They come direct to the dealer from his neighboring Factory Branch.

There are 92 of these Branches established and maintained by the U. S. Tire makers.

Giving your dealer a continuous moving stock of new, fresh tires built on the certainty of quality first every time

"Fresh, live U. S. Tires come direct to the dealer from his neighboring Factory Branch."

WHEAT CROP IN GREENE COUNTY WILL BE AVERAGE

Although it is admitted that the year's wheat crop in Greene County is not as good as it was ex-pected to be, it is expected that nearly an average crop will be harvested, according to County Agent Ford S. Prince.

Many farmers now have all of their wheat cut, the harvesting coming un-usually early this year. Spring weather that advanced the wheat crop considerably, moved the harvest for-ward at least two weeks.

In many cases the crop is good but in others, it is said it did not come up to expectations. In most cases however, the head is short but full, and it is expected that an average crop will be harvested over the country.

INWARD GOITRE IS ENTIRELY REMOVED

Troy Woman Tells How External Home Treatment Put an End to Suffering.

Note: It would be illegal to publish these statements if they were not true. Mrs. Dot Cox, 8 No Market St., Troy, O., says in her own home paper, the Troy Miami Union: "I used Sorbol Ointment a year ago and it has com-pletely relieved me of a terrible in-ward goitre. I was so short of breath I could not use my eyes for reading or sewing, could not stoop over, was so nervous and my heart would feel like it would jump out. My throat would throb and choke me. Could not wash or sweep at all. Was in bed part of the time. I have been doing my wash-ing, and all my own work since last summer. My whole system is stronger and my throat does not bother me at all. I am as well as I was before I had goitre. If anyone cares to write me I will be glad to answer."

Sorbol Quadruple comes in small bot-tles containing enough for most cases. It will not stain or irritate. Does not in-terfere with regular work. Leaves parts in healthful normal condition. Requires 10 minutes daily.

Akron Man Restored by Tanlac Year Ago Says He's Felt Fine Ever Since

"Tanlac will certainly do the work for it set me right more than a year ago and I have been in the best of health ever since," said Edward J. Bates, 807 Amherst St., Akron Ohio.

"I was all run-down and under the weather before I got hold of Tanlac," he explained. "My appetite was prac-tically gone and nothing tasted right. My nerves were all on edge and I could not half sleep. I was constipated and had to be taking something all the time for that as well as my other troubles. Of mornings I felt so weak and fagged out I could hard-ly make it off to work and all through the day it seemed like I would give clear out."

"But it's a fact Tanlac fixed me up in less than a month's time. Why, I was surprised at the way I com-menced improving. My appetite came back and I started picking up in weight and just simply felt better all around. All my troubles soon left and Tanlac built me up so well that to this day I have been feeling fine. I am all the time recommending Tan-lac to some of my friends, for I know it is a medicine that can be counted on."

Tanlac is sold in Xenia by Sayre & Hemphill and leading druggists.

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. Edsel B. Ford, President of the Ford Motor Company, gives out the following statement, re-garding reduction in prices.

In part he says: "The big reductions last fall were made in anticipation of low materials costs which we are now getting the benefit of, and this fact together with increased manufacturing effi-ciency and the unprecedented demand for Ford cars, particularly during the past three months permit-ting maximum production, have made the price reduction of two weeks ago possible."

"The Fordson tractor is still being sold at less than the cost to produce, on account of the recent big price reductions, and it is impossible, therefore, to make any further cut in the price of the tractor."

We will gladly advise you concerning the de-livery of a Fordson tractor or the particular type of car in which you are interested. Just phone us or drop us a card.

Plaxico Takes Two Firsts And One Second, In Opening Event of Races

INITIAL DAY OF RACING PROVIDES THRILLING EVENTS

Driver Plaxico was in the money three times in the opening event of the race meeting which started at the Fairgrounds, Tuesday, under the auspices of the Xenia Trotting Association, furnishing a consistent sensation to spice a day of good racing and fast time.

Nick Grady, from the stable of T. N. Simpson, of Charleston, S. C., with Plaxico up, won the first event, the 2:30 trot, being the only straight-heat event of the afternoon. Later, in the second event, the 2:18 pace, Plaxico drove Archie Burns, the bay gelding by Bobby Burns, owned by Beever Brothers, of Hillsboro, to a win with two winning heats and a second, and in the 2:10 pace, he took one heat with Sister Norte, from the stable of J. C. Cochran, of Charlotte, N. C., and won a second money.

The feat of being in the money in all three events, and hanging up two firsts and one second position, in a single day's events is expected to set a record for the local meet. For other drivers to shoot at during the four days' racing. The 2:10 pace, in which Plaxico drove to second money, was won by Bessie L., the well known bay mare by Little Frank, owned and driven by Johnnie Jones, the colored driver, from Cedarville. The little mare stepped the first mile in 11 1-4, and appears to be better than ever this season.

Crickett was the runner up in the 30 trot, stepping well at the finish in all three heats. Starting Judge, Frank L. Johnson, got the steppers away in good shape, the field scoring only twice before he led them away. The Grady horse led all the way, Nan Watts, with Gale up and Bernice A., driven by Anderson, going on the break after passing on the first half. Bernice A., owned by Mrs. M. L. Anderson, of Kenton, coming back strong in the rest of the event.

A great spurt in the stretch furnished excitement for the rail birds and enabled Tango, driven by the veteran Cliff Todd, to win the first heat of the 2:18 pace, with Plaxico up, was leading at the wire the first time around, but Todd drove his gelding to a sterling finish that pushed him out in front on the stretch, the win being recorded by a length. Archie Burns came back in this event, winning the next two heats and proving that Burns horses are still good, while Tango was content with second position in the next two heats.

Peter Mouer, the sorrel, owned and driven by L. E. Ruff, of Lancaster, a Peter the Great product, and Barney Stricker, the chestnut gelding owned and driven by Martin of Columbus, pushed Bessie L. to the limit in the first heat of the 2:10 pace and furnished an exciting finish that taxed the judge's eyes, and drew applause from the bugs. Bessie L., took the lead at the start of the first heat, with Peter Mouer coming from fourth position to second in a magnificent spurt, pushing Bessie L., all the way. Fifty feet from the wire, however, Barney Stricker trying hard to place in the money, crowded Ruff's speeder back into third place, while Bessie L., finished first. Peter Mouer proved a strong contender throughout, placing in second position the next two heats, while Bessie L., took the second trip and Sister Norte, with Plaxico up, stepped in and took the third, giving that driver his third money winning event.

The second heat of the 2:18 pace furnished one of the interesting skirmishes of the day. Tango, with Todd up was away in the lead, having the pole after taking the first heat. At the first turn, however, the gelding Fagin, with Johnnie Jones up, took the lead with Tango dropping back to third position. Showing consistent speed and good generalship with the reins, Archie Burns, with Plaxico up, crowded forward on the stretch, dropping Fagin behind and winning the heat in an exciting finish with Tango.

A good opening day crowd was on hand for the racing. Trotting Association officials placing the attendance at 1,500. Wednesday, Thursday and Friday are expected to draw many more.

Among the spectators Tuesday was Frank Walker, veteran grand circuit starter, and one of the best known starting judges in the country. Stephen G. Phillips, of this city, who started the horses at the Akron meeting last week was also present. Another interesting visitor in the crowd of racing bugs was E. L. Churchill, of the Western Horseman, a magazine devoted to the interests of horsemen.

BRINGING UP FATHER

BOTH FIGHTERS ARE IN EXCELLENT SHAPE FOR TITULAR BOUT

By JAMES J. CORBETT

New York, June 21.—Champion Jack Dempsey and his dapper challenger, Georges Carpentier, both will be in excellent shape July 2. Never fear about that for a minute.

There will be no alibi on either side about condition after this fight is over. That is as it should be. The fighters owe it to themselves and to the boxing public to enter the ring in the acme of physical perfection. Just look what they are getting.

It isn't their fault of course that the fight game is so strongly commercialized today. But they are profiting by it. And the average fighter of today, thinks more of the commercial end of the game than he does of a championship.

The fighters of today often hat on themselves, but compared with the purses they are getting in this age, they do not waver such sums as we fellows of the bygone days used to.

The movies, too must be considered when we compare the financial side of the game today with that of bygone years. Of course, the law which prevents a boxing "fillum" from being transported from one state to another has taken most of the kick out of fight pictures in this country but they are still profitable. If the Dempsey-Carpentier fight goes from five to seven rounds, the pictures will be worth a couple of million dollars. We never thought or dreamed in millions when I was a fighter. Ten thousand and the glory of winning a title was big stuff in those days.

TO NAME ERTLE AS REFEREE OF FIGHT

Jersey City, N. J., June 22.—The New Jersey boxing commission will name Harry Ertle as the referee of the Dempsey-Carpentier fight at a meeting here today, according to its secretary, Joseph Cassidy. The selection of Ertle, it is said, was determined upon some time ago and confirmed at an informal meeting on Tuesday. All parties concerned are said to be satisfied with Ertle. Ertle's experience as a referee began in 1918 when the Hurlay law went into effect and since then he has refereed a large number of important fights in New Jersey. Among the bouts over which he has presided was the Carpentier-Levinisky bout, last year.

NAVY, CALIFORNIA AND COLUMBIA ARE FAVORITES IN RACE

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 22.—Three crews stood out as strong contenders today as the country's stellar college oarsmen at the classic Poughkeepsie regatta on the Hudson this afternoon.

The navy, California and Columbia, were favored to put over for a victory that promised to be hard won and from the showing these crews have made in practice spins, the race-over the three mile distance-promised to be a record breaker.

Cornell, Syracuse and Pennsylvania, the other trio in the big varsity events have shown great improvement since the coming to Poughkeepsie to appear for the day's regatta and any one of them might furnish a surprise.

The program of races today included three events, the freshmen, junior varsity and varsity races. The big race was scheduled to start at 7 o'clock daylight saving time, with the crews rowing down stream.

CITY HALL ROBBED

Cleveland, June 21.—Thieves entered the city hall here and got away with $545 in currency from the same in the rooms of the Humane Society on the sixth floor, it was learned today. The robbery which occurred yesterday was kept secret by officials until this morning.

BODY DECAPITATED

Boston, June 21.—Considerable mystery surrounds the finding of the decapitated body of Miss Selma DeLong, former Chinese missionary on the Boston and Albany railroad tracks, near the cottage farm bridge today. An investigation revealed that Miss DeLong disappeared from the home of friends in Brooklyn after it was thought she had retired.

The Revolt of Vera Sanderson

By JANE PHELPS.

MOTHER SANDERSON COMES HOME.
CHAPTER 74.

I would follow Erma's advice and do all I could to compel Keith to give me home of my own. I had used June tried to make Keith think it would be better for her but that also had failed. Was there anything new under the sun I could plead to win him over?

I felt like going to Mr. Butler and begging him to marry Margaret. All sorts of wild and impossible schemes came into my mind. Yet the days and weeks passed and nothing reasonable came to me.

One morning Keith received a letter. His mother would be back the following week. She asked him to tell Mrs. Brown, the housekeeper, so she would be ready for her. I was delighted that she was returning. Perhaps I could go down to Hillsdale, take June, and stay a while with her. I almost spoke of it, so keen was my desire, but restrained myself. If Margaret saw my eagerness she would surely plan so that I could not go.

Keith always ran upstairs at breakfast to bid June goodbye, and I invariably followed him. He still allowed Margaret to have the last word—the last kiss. When we were alone with baby, I said:

"Your mother loves children. Perhaps she will like me to bring June down and stay with her a little while."

"Of course she will!" Keith answered wholeheartedly. "I shall have to be down there a food deal this spring, and it will be a change for you."

I said no more. I did not want Keith to speak of it to Margaret, not at once. He would, naturally, soon. But if she knew I had proposed to go the moment I knew her mother Tommorrow—Keith Goes Away For Ten Days.

It is not to be wondered at, in view of our frequent arguments on the subject, that I scarcely knew how to inject anything new into my plea for a home of my own. I had used June tried to make Keith think it would be better for her but that also had failed. Was there anything new under the sun I could plead to win him over?

I felt like going to Mr. Butler and begging him to marry Margaret. All sorts of wild and impossible schemes came into my mind. Yet the days and weeks passed and nothing reasonable came to me.

One morning Keith received a letter. His mother would be back the following week. She asked him to tell Mrs. Brown, the housekeeper, so she would be ready for her. I was delighted that she was returning. Perhaps I could go down to Hillsdale, take June, and stay a while with her. I almost spoke of it, so keen was my desire, but restrained myself. If Margaret saw my eagerness she would surely plan so that I could not go.

Keith always ran upstairs at breakfast to bid June goodbye, and I invariably followed him. He still allowed Margaret to have the last word—the last kiss. When we were alone with baby, I said:

"Your mother loves children. Perhaps she will like me to bring June down and stay with her a little while."

I said no more. I did not want Keith to speak of it to Margaret, not at once. He would, naturally, soon. But if she knew I had proposed to go the moment I knew her mother Tommorrow—Keith Goes Away For Ten Days.

It is not to be wondered at, in something to prevent—surely if she knew Keith would be with me.

It seemed to me that my days were a strange sort of hodge-podge filled with happiness when with my baby, hatred when where Margaret was, worrisome thoughts when alone. I saw more of Keith because after I had gone to the club, there seemed no real reason why I should not go other places with him. But Margaret did not have so many parties. She said the reason was about over. I felt sure it was because I would have to go. When she entertained at home she invariably had an odd number and so sent Keith home with Mrs. De Lisle.

"Why don't you ask an even number, Margaret?" I questioned one day. "Then Keith would not have to go out."

"Jealous because he takes Alice home?" she laughed.

"No. But I don't think it quite fair to Keith to make him go home with her every time. He gets up early you know."

"Has Keith complained?"

"No, he wouldn't, of course."

"Then I wouldn't worry about it. I knew it was jealousy. But until Keith complains I shall ask him to escort Alice home." Her tone was indescribable when she said Keith wouldn't complain. It was as though he loved to take Alice De Lisle home because he loved her.

This tone which she had of late adopted made me the more anxious to get away, to have a home of my own. Without saying it, she made me feel I was losing Keith. That he no longer cared for me—that he loved Alice De Lisle.

DRASTIC MEASURES TAKEN TO PROTECT

CHEERED AND HISSED
Not Disturbed Over the Outlook Upon Arrival
In U. S.

New York, June 22.—Wearing civilian clothes, featured by a soft green hat, Admiral William Snowden Sims, apparently in a cheerful, confident mood, and in the best of health, arrived on the liner Olympic today and without any demonstrations of hostility and but a few of friendship marking his arrival, proceeded immediately by auto to the Pennsylvania station, to take the train for Washington.

New York, June 22.—Rear Admiral William S. Sims, U. S. N., who was recalled from England by Secretary of the Navy Denby because of a sensational speech on political matters, arrived today on the White Star liner Olympic. Extraordinary police precautions were made to protect the admiral from hostile demonstrations on the part of Sinn Fein sympathizers. Measures virtually as drastic as those taken to guard the life of President Wilson when he went abroad and came home, were in effect.

West street, the street flanking
North river, where the White Star line has its quay, was cleared of all persons between 14th street and 23rd street. More than 1,000 policemen were on duty as well as several detectives. Two platoons of mounted police slowly patrolled back and forth along the pier and kept the side streets clear. Other policemen on motorcycles scurried back and forth. No one except persons holding specially vided passes were allowed to approach the dock.

An official reception was tendered the admiral by a group of naval officers, headed by Rear Admiral Huse, commandant of the Third naval district.

Admiral Sims did not seem perturbed over the outlook. He looked cheerful and was in the best of health. He chatted with friends, and shook hands. He was accompanied by Mrs. Sims. Passengers on the Olympic said that the admiral did not have much to say on the voyage across but was unperturbed.

Thousands gathered along the water front to get a glimpse of the admiral, but they were held back in the side streets, and to the parts of West street north of 23rd and south of 18th streets. The crowd was made up of both enemies and admirers of the admiral.

More German U-Boats
Prey of U. S. Destroyers

Subs Which Raided Allied Commerce in North Sea, Are Helpless Targets for Naval Guns Off Cape Charles —Destruction According to Orders

On board the U. S. S. Rail (Observer's Boat, off the Virginia Capes, June 22—via wireless—Vestiges of the terror-striking power of the German undersea warfare went to an ignominous end at the hands of the United States navy today.

The former German submarine's
U-140 and UB-48, vessels which at one time cruised the North Sea, raiding allied commerce, today are lying at anchor sixty miles off Cape Charles, as helpless as the prey which they formerly hunted, waiting for the guns of American destroyers to send them to the bottom.

Today's destruction and target practice is in accordance with a decision reached by the conference of Ambasadors which provides that all of the former German submarines shall be at the bottom of the sea by July 1.

Admiral Jones in command of the Atlantic fleet, drew up a gray destroyer division to officiate at the burial of these sea raiders, which are tossing about in foreign waters, their rusty hulls a mute tribute to the powers that crushed the relentless ambition of the German war lords.

Although a destroyer division has been provided to give the death blow but two of the little gray fighters of the United States will open fire.

One destroyer has been designated as executioner for each U-boat. The sea hornets will approach the targets from not less than 5,000 yards and attack opening fire at a range of not less than three thousand yards.

The U-140 is 130 feet in length and the U-48 is 181 feet long.

The officers of the Atlantic fleet are watching today's practice with intense interest and making careful records of the time it will take for the destroyers to sink the U-boats in comparison with the time taken by air forces yesterday.

While official comment is withheld on yesterday's air attack on the U-117, naval officers were somewhat astonished at the accuracy of the aerial bombing for none of the bombs went wild.

miral, July 1, succeeding Admiral Henry B. Wilson, appointed Commandant of the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis.

of British troops are being sent into can army. It was stated at the war

graphed immediately after his arrest in Buffalo, New York, charged with the murder of Daniel Kaber, wealthy Cleveland publisher, who was killed almost two years ago. In connection with the death of Kaber, the late publisher's mother-in-law, the wife and stepdaughter are under arrest. According to District Attorney Moore, Cola admits stabbing Kaber twenty-four times.

"Yes, I Killed Him" Says
Man Accused of Murder

Cleveland, June 22.—Salvatore Cola, indicted for the killing of Daniel F. Kaber, wealthy publisher, was arraigned before Judge Maurice Ber-nin this morning. An interpreter was called in to translate the charge into Italian.

When asked how he wished to plead, Cola replied in Italian:
"Yes, I killed him."

A plea of not guilty was entered. Cola said he had no money and Judge Bernin will later appoint counsel to prepare his defense.

Cola was taken from the courtroom to the office of Prosecutor Edward C. Stanton, where he will confront Mrs. Eva Catherine Kaber and Mrs. Erminia Colavito, also charged with the crime.

"IDLE HOUSE" AT STATE PENITENTIARY
DISGRACE TO OHIO DECLARES DR. BLAND

Columbus, Ohio, June 22.—The legislative committee probing conditions at the penitentiary may conduct a personal inspection at the big prison today or tomorrow. Subpoenas will be issued for a large number of witnesses to appear before the committee it was said.

Dr. Morton W. Bland, Columbus, who made a preliminary survey of the conditions told the committee that a psychiatrist is most needed at the penitentiary to examine and classify prisoners according to their mentality.

Advocating that the idle house be "blown up with dynamite," Dr.
Bland said it is the "most disgraceful condition in and institution and is a disgrace and shock to the state of Ohio."

Declaring that "worst of all is the close association of the rabid criminal with the man who has just 'slipped,'" Dr. Bland said that a psychiatrist was needed to classify and segregate the prisoners.

Attorney General Price has ruled that the legislative committee has a legal right to probe conditions in the penitentiary.

AMERICAN POLO TEAM LIFTS FAMOUS INTERNATIONAL CUP BY SECOND WIN

Hurlingham, England, June 22.— America's great team lifted the famous international cup by defeating the British team 10 to 6 here today in the second match of the series, which was for the best two in three.

Captain Devereaux Milburn and his dashing players won the right to carry the cup back to America in the presence of the greatest crowd that ever witnessed a polo match in the British Isles. The prince of Wales was a spectator and the nobility turned out in force.

Milburn, recovered from the injuries to his back that threatened to keep him out of the last week's match, was the inspiration to his team again today. He started in whirlwind style, and seemingly taking the cue from him, the American team rode to victory after getting a start of three goals in the initial chukker.

JEALOUSY PROMPTS
DOUBLE TRAGEDY
IN SPRINGFIELD

Springfield, June 22.—Mrs. Cora Casey, 28, of Springfield, a sister of Mrs. Anna Sessler of Jamestown, was shot and killed by George Speary, 46, a jealous lover, at the home of her parents-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George Casey, 624 East street, Springfield, at noon Tuesday.

It is alleged that Mrs. Casey had been keeping company with Speary, her husband having disappeared several years ago, but had been driven to the home of her parents-in-law by another man in an automobile at noon Tuesday. Speary was enraged when he saw her with the other man, and declaring that she would not return in the automobile, he shot her four times with a .38 calibre revolver. Then going to his room at the Casey home, he shot himself once in the stomach, and walking to the yard, shot himself again in the head. Both died at the Springfield city hospital.

Mrs. Casey leaves two children, Georgia and Richard. Her maiden name was Cora Rector, and she leaves a stepmother, Mrs. Milla Rector, of Brighton, and two sisters, Mrs.
Sessler of Jamestown.

BELFAST, ARMED CAMP
AS ROYALTY ARRIVES

FINDS RIGHT ONE
AFTER THREE TRYs

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 22.—No. 1 was too old, cranky and settled in his ways; No. 2 was too small, too young, too fickle and fond of cabarets; No. 3 however is "everything a husband should be."

This is what Mrs. Gertrude Brown, 17, and pretty, charged with bigamy, told the presiding judge in morale court here today.
She admitted that she had been thrice married without the formality of obtaining a divorce.

"I just love John to death," she told the judge. "I guess I'm through marrying."

Here's her marital history:
Married Samuel Brown, 32, of Franklin, Mo., at Hilton, W. Va.,
April 1, 1919.

Married Frank Burkhardt, 22, 6628 Lorain Avenue, Cleveland, in August, 1920, at Jeffersonville, Ind.

Married John Sylvester, 26, of Pittsburgh, at Wheeling, W. Va., three months ago.

AND QUEEN MADE

SOLDIERS ON GUARD
Ceremonies Mark Opening Of New Northern Ireland Parliament

Belfast, June 22.—"A new era is opening," King George told the Northern Ireland (Ulster) parliament today, in a speech formally inaugurating this new law-making body. The speech breathed the earnest wish that the attempt to solve the Irish problem now being made through the home rule bill would prove successful.

"For all who love Ireland as I do, with all my heart, this is a profoundly moving occasion in Irish history," said the king.

Belfast, June 22.—This city was an armed camp when King George and Queen Mary arrived here today to participate in the state opening of the new northern Ireland (Ulster parliament). It was the first time in 19 years that King George had visited Belfast.

The royal yacht, Victoria and Albert, escorted by a squadron of royal warships, came into the harbor at gray dawn. The royal yacht was surrounded by a cordon of men of war while others patrolled the bay and waters outside. Belfast has always been loyal to the royal family during the turbulent agitations in Ireland. It took pains today to show its loyalty. The British flags fluttered from windows, roof tops and roof poles. The houses were festooned with bunting. The pictures of the king and queen were everywhere.

Never in the history of Ireland had such precautions been taken for the protection of royal guests.
This city and suburbs were crammed with soldiers. The streets were literally filled with policemen and secret service agents were on every hand.

Soldiers Line Route
Every yard of the route from the pier to the city hall (a part of which has been set aside temporarily as the meeting place of parliament) was guarded by soldiers, who stood almost shoulder to shoulder. There were more than 10,000 troops on the field and it was believed that the police agents and secret service men imported for the occasion totalled almost as many.

Scotland Yard and Dublin Castle, united in their safeguarding plans, and secret service men were gathered from all parts of the British Isles for duty here.

The Victoria and Albert had made the trip across the Irish Sea from Holyhead without incident and in perfect safety.

When the king and queen came ashore, the royal salute went up from the cruisers and destroyers and the guns in the land batteries defending the harbor.

Met By Delegation
Before the landing of the king and queen, a delegation of Belfast citizens went on board the Victoria and Albert and greeted the king and queen in the name of Ulster province and the city of Belfast. It originally had been intended that representatives of other parts of Ireland should go on board the royal yacht, but at the last minute, the authorities decided it would be too dangerous and plans were re-arranged.

After the ceremonies on ship board during which there was handshaking and a brief exchange of formalities, tenders were put out with the royal flag and a cheer went up from the loyal citizens gathered on the water front.

Throughout the early hours, while the ceremonies were in progress on the deck of the royal yacht, the police and detectives had been busy rounding up suspected Sinn Feiners and completing the precautions for the safety of the royal couple. Everyone suspected of republican sympathies was excluded from the streets throughout the royal procession passed.

The houses along the way were filled with policemen and soldiers.
Picked troops occupied every strategic point. Even the roofs were patrolled. Every possible measure of safety was adopted.

Big Celebration
The trip from the pier to the city hall was made in a state coach drawn by white horses. The king and queen glanced about them as they rode along, as though they felt a great curiosity at being in Ireland, the land which has been Britain's chief seat of trouble and turmoil for so long. The people of Belfast, most of whom are loyalists and anti-home rulers, cheered and waved flags and hats and handkerchiefs and George and Mary bowed and smiled in answer to the greetings.

DISARMAMENT IS AIM OF MEETING
NOW SUGGESTED

Premiers Would Invite U.
S. Into Conference to Discuss Plan.

London, June 22.—The morning newspapers made no comment today upon the speeches of Premier Smuts of South Africa and Premier Hughes of Australia, urging Great Britain to invite the United States, Japan and France into conference for discussion of disarmament. The speeches were made at the imperial conference. The premiers declared they believed the moment had arrived for a movement towards limitation of naval armaments. The absence of comment in the morning press probably was explained by the lateness of the hour at which the communique containing the speeches was issued.

The speeches, especially that of Premier Smuts, made a profound impression in allied circles. Premier Smuts pointed out the danger of "imperialistic thinking" and said it was vitaly necessary to keep in touch with the United States. He said that it had been the strongest policy of the British empire to make a race for armaments impossible. The most fatal mistake of all, he added, would be a contest for armaments with the United States. The American nation, he went on, "is closest to us in all human ties. The dominions look upon her (the United States) as the oldest of them."

In conclusion, the African premier said:

"America left our circle long ago,
because of a great historical mistake.
I am not sure but what a wise policy, after the great events through which we have passed recently, might not repair the effects of that great error and once more bring America into general co-operation with the British empire."

MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

Place.

Columbus, 8, June 22.—A call to each American Legion post in Ohio to take part in a membership drive and "bring the legion membership in Ohio back from fifth to third place where it once stood," has been issued by State Commander McQuigg.

"The earnest wish of our late commander, F. W. Galbraith Jr., was for Ohio to lead the nation with 100-000 members," said commander Mc-Quigg. "The greatest monument which we can erect to his memory is the development of an enormous membership in the Ohio department. It is just what he would ask if he could."

ing as an examiner will become

The Mighty Want Ad

Classified, or "want" advertising, as it is sometimes called, is advertising to supply a definite want. Like all advertising, its purpose is to bring buyer and seller together, but the person who reads classified advertisements generally has a definite want to be filled. There are no limitations to classified advertising—it is the great clearing house of human desires. Farms, homes, automobiles, machinery, live stock, patents, furs, jewelry, furniture, fixtures, office supplies, stocks, bonds, building material, musical instruments, poultry supplies, boats, stores, businesses, are bought and sold, flats, houses, and rooms rented, plain "jobs" and high-salaried "positions" secured by classified advertising.

Lost pocketbooks and relatives are restored, partners "for better or worse" have been secured. Country estates costing thousands have been sold through classified advertising, farms and ranches worth into the hundreds of thousands have been sold through advertisements that cost a few dollars. Land and colonization companies, railroads, state boards of immigration, even governments have sold vast quantities of land and secured settlers by classified advertising. An $80,000 ranch was sold by spending $25.00. Twenty two thousand acres of Colorado land was sold in 40 to 160 acre tracts, at a total expense of $2,200—10c per acre. A classified advertisement costing less than a dollar has secured a salesman who has made thousands of dollars each year for his company. Several concerns in Chicago do a business of a million dollars a year through agents secured by classified advertising, who sell their goods from house to house.

These are unusual examples, but anyone at all familiar with conditions knows that classified advertising is daily securing positions for thousands in every section of the country, is the means of the employer getting in touch in 24 hours with a shipping clerk or general manager; is renting and selling real estate in almost unthought of amounts. All this is done by little classified advertisements. This vast business can be done at such small expense because the people who read classified advertisements have a definite want and the advertiser is offering something to supply that want.

There is no use trying to create a demand through classified advertising, the demand for one thing is already there in the mind of the classified reader or he would not be reading classified advertisements, and he reads just what he wants.

The newspapers recognize how valuable classified advertising is to them not only because of the revenue it brings but because of the tremendous good will that is developed through carrying thousands of these classified advertisements and bringing such great numbers of individuals into profitable contact with each other.

To aid their readers the modern newspaper carefully classifies each advertisement under the proper heading and an index is printed at the beginning to show the readers the exact location of the advertisement on the subject in which they are interested.

Classified advertising is the great public market. Concerns and individuals find many occasions when they can save time and effort by running these small advertisements.

Classified advertising is the great public market place—and in order to make this department of The Evening Gazette and The Morning Republican more efficient the newest and most modern system known has been installed, which assures both readers and advertisers the best possible service in classified advertising.

BANKS ARE ASKED TO BE LIBERAL TO FARMERS OF COUNTRY

Washington. — The American farmer must be kept in business on a paying basis for the prosperity of American industry and business depends vitally upon the ability of the farmer to produce his products at a profit. At no time in history has this conviction been so strong as now. Government officials who direct fiscal policies and exercise control over the banking system agree that agriculture must have its share of bank credit advantages. To this end the credit bars have been lowered, as a partial means of putting the farmer on his feet.

Governor W. P. G. Harding, of the Federal Reserve Board, is keenly alive to the farmers' needs in the present farming crisis. He recognizes that all business has lagged because of depression in agriculture, and the disastrous effects of the price reductions upon the producers generally. Governor Harding is confident that new measures which the Reserve Board has approved to lower the discount rate at reserve banks will greatly benefit the farmer.

"Agriculture is the basic and fundamental industry," says Harding. "Upon its fruits depend the lives of those engaged in other industries."

"The farmer is a great consumer of manufactured products. Anything that affects the farmers' buying power is soon reflected in the business of the merchant and manufacturer. Conversely, depression in manufacturing and other lines of business is reflected in reduced demand for farm products." Governor Harding contended that farming must be made remunerative or the people will see American farming languish and ruinous consequences for the whole nation.

Bankers throughout the country have been asked to give the farmer every possible measure of aid in producing and marketing his crops on terms sufficiently profitable to justify him staying in business. Bankers, seeing the handwriting on the wall, are expected by the Government to respond with more liberal aid.

The guests were entertained on the rear lawn of the Boring home, where delicious refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed. About fifty neighbors and friends of Miss Etta Swadener, whose marriage to Mr. Frank Willett will be an event of the near future, were entertained at the beautiful country home of Mrs. James Harner, on the Lower Bellbrook pike, Tuesday afternoon.

The affair was in the nature of a miscellaneous shower, and after a duet by the Misses Marjorie and Mary Douthett, and a solo by Miss Anna Louise Whitlow, Miss Swadener opened the many beautiful presents she received. The presents had previously been deposited in a large basket which was trimmed in pink and white. Wild roses placed in wicker baskets were used in the decorations, while sprays of the same flower were artistically arranged throughout the rooms. The colors of pink and white were also carried out in the delicious refreshments served.

During the afternoon a bean throwing contest was engaged in. The prize, a cut glass dish, was won by Mrs. Emma Gattrell, who presented it to Miss Swadener.

EASTERN STAR HOLDS ANNUAL CUTTING AT KILKARE PARK

Two hundred members of the Eastern Star, and their friends enjoyed the annual picnic of the order held at Kil Kare Tuesday.

In spite of the rain that came up in the evening the amusement and activities planned for the day were carried out according to schedule and the affair turned out to be one of the most enjoyable ever given by the organization.

A number of contests were conducted during the afternoon. In an efficiency contest for women, Mrs. Howard Norris, was the first prize winner and Mrs. Roy C. Hayward, won second prize. A capable contest conducted for the men, required each contestant to open packages of women's wearing apparel and put them on in the proper order and place. Emil Eichman was the first winner and J. Twelve men and twelve women took part in a relay ball game. The first game resulted in a tie, and each side won one of the next two making it necessary to play a fourth which the men's team won. Five teams participated in the musical peanut hunt, the team captained by Mrs. Claude Lynn winning, and the team captained by Mrs. William Fetters getting the booby prize. In a milk drinking contest, J. D. D. Allen, was given the booby prize.

Other contests were conducted for the younger people in the party. Owing to the rain, the picnicers served their lunches on the pavilion veranda, and after the meal, enjoyed dancing.

This question has been asked about many a woman under thirty, who has married and taken upon herself the cares of a house and young children. When a woman is suffering from female weakness, bearing down pains, head and back ache and nervous irritation, it is well nigh impossible to attend to her duties and retain the charm and freshness of youth. Must she then struggle on toward the inevitable nervous breakdown or premature old age?

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has saved many women from such a fate. Thousands of grateful letters from such women testify to the merits of this wonderful root and herb medicine for female ill.

SALE OF CRACKERS TABOO UNTIL THREE DAYS BEFORE FOURTH

Police are warning merchants who sell fire crackers, not to place the pyrotechnics on sale until three days before the Fourth of July.

The police order is issued in order to avoid the usual pre-Fourth display of fire crackers, that annoys citizens sometimes for weeks before Independence Day. Merchants, co-operating with the city administration, will do much to prevent this nuisance this year, by refusing to sell the crackers until three days before the Fourth, police say.

Possibilities of the city commission passing an ordinance at the meeting, Thursday night, making it unlawful to shoot off fire crackers in the city as a means of putting a stop to the nuisance of the noise-making long before the Fourth, are good, according to police. Such an action would prevent the sale of pyrotechnics and it is believed that dealers with stocks on hand will curb the sale until the proper time, rather than permit an ordinance stopping the sale altogether to become a law.

N. C. R. TO BE HOST TO XENIANS NEXT TUESDAY IN DAYTON

Through the Xenia Quoit Club, the National Cash Register Company of Dayton, extends an invitation to all Xenia business men and their wives, to be the guests of that company, next Tuesday.

The Dayton Club will conduct a special tour of inspection of the N. C. R. plant at ten o'clock Tuesday morning, the trip through the plant lasting until noon. The local delegation will then be taken to the Dayton Country Club, where dinner will be provided and where they will be entertained during the afternoon. Match quito games will probably be played.

All Xenia business men are included in the invitation, and the crowd can not be too large, it is said, as from 1,000 to 1,500 visitors can easily be taken care of for a plant inspection at the N. C. R.

Through the Xenia Quoit Club, the invitation was extended to the Chamber of Commerce, and all business men whether members of the latter organization or not are invited. People expecting to make the trip should notify T. Dales Kyle, of the Quoit Club at the Citizens National Bank, as early as possible.

It is understood that a similar invitation has been issued to other cities in this section.

ARRANGEMENTS MADE FOR FALL FESTIVAL DISTRICT ON TUESDAY

Arrangements for the district for the festival to be held here this fall under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce were made at a conference of the local committee with Frank E. Aid, secretary of the Festival Production Company of Chillicothe, who was in this city, Tuesday.

Secretary F. J. Slackford of the Chamber of Commerce will have a map in a few days showing the location of each merchant's space and any merchant desiring space should see Mr. Slackford at the Chamber of Commerce, as soon as possible, those in charge say.

Mr. Aid told the local committee that all twelve cities which his company has booked have oversubscribed their quota for space and that each space blocked by walls of honeycombs, day the company received letters from filled with several hundred pounds of merchants in the cities where they honey.

are going to hold festivals, wanting to know the best way to make demonstrations in their booths. A letter will be mailed soon to all those who have purchased space here, informing them just what to do with their booths, in order to make them attractive.

It was also announced by Mr. Aid that the Production Company has secured the Marvelous Mills Elephant Act for a free attraction. This act is considered the most daring and highest priced act in the country, it is said. "We also have two other free acts which are worthy of note," Mr. Aid said. "The trained dog and pony act will surely please all the children and the fancy dance act will furnish amusement to both young and old."

DOLLAR DAY DRAWS LARGE CROWDS TO STORES WEDNESDAY

One of the biggest Dollar Days in the history of this annual trade-drawing feature, is the way Xenia merchants spoke of the 1921 Dollar Day, Wednesday.

A bargain-seeking crowd that thronged the streets early in the morning, did not hesitate long in packing Xenia stores in search of the many bargains that are offered at special prices on merchandise counters.

Merchants, gaining brief respite from the rush of bargain-hunters at noon, Wednesday, proclaimed the day the best in several years. Well advertised through the medium of the Gazette and Republican and through booster bills distributed through the county, advising people to look for bargain attractions in the newspapers, the crowd came in early to avoid the heat and then remained long to avoid missing a bargain.

Some merchants claimed the day was better than ever before. Others said it was just as good. But a glance at Xenia streets in the business section or a glimpse into the interior of the stores of merchants offering attractive bargains told its own story.

Another Dollar Day has been set down as a merchandising success.

ATTIC STOCKED WITH HONEY

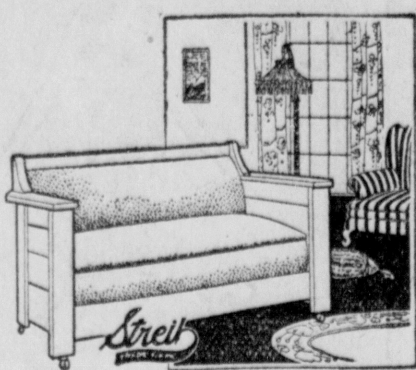

Newark, June 22.—Some time ago bees crawled through a knot hole into the garret of the home of Edward Parlette, in Chatham near here, and more recently another swarm did likewise. When Mr. Parlette had occasion to go to the garret he found his passage blocked by walls of honeycombs, day the company received letters from filled with several hundred pounds of merchants in the cities where they honey.

Sunshine focused through a sunglass creates a heat so terrific that it melts the hardest metals. Rays of ordinary sunshine when scattered are hardly felt.

Nickels and dimes, accumulated in the Woolworth five-and-ten cent stores, created a fortune so large that it built the tallest building in the world. Small change when squandered makes little showing.

CHIROPRACTORS

are engaged in the hard task of getting right of way for the right way. The simple logic of the chiropractic adjustment is irresistible once it is understood. That is why in less than a score of years, it has made such marvelous strides.

Why a chiropractic push in the back is good for stomach trouble is hard to understand, unless you stop to think, that the stomach nerve comes from the spine, and a disordered joint of the spine causes pressure on the stomach nerve or any other nerve that may be in its way. The chiropractic adjustment removes the pressure and Nature restores normal strength and health.

OLDSMOBILE CARS AND TRUCKS
OVERLAND & WILLYS KNIGHT CARS

Why is the Overland Four the best low priced car on the market today?

ECONOMY! We have made four mileage tests with our different new machines—average mileage per gallon twenty-six miles. This wonderful little car is equally as economical on tires and oil.

COMFORT! Though the actual wheel base of this car is only one hundred inches, its overhanging spring suspension gives it the easy riding qualities of a large car with one hundred and twenty inch wheel base.

QUALITY! The material and parts that go into this car are of the very finest quality. It is now a hand assembled job throughout. Every fault found with this car during the eighteen months it has been on the market, has been absolutely corrected.

Drop in and let us show you how good it really is.

- Any of the standard makes are good tires. Select the brand you hear most about that delivers long mileage uniformly, tire after tire.
- Don't be misled by looks. They have nothing to do with miles delivered on your car. Buy a safe practical non-skid, that prevents slipping the most. The Miller Geared-to-the-Road is now the nation's choice for big cars or small.
- Select a tire you would buy the second, third and fourth times. Keep your service received uniform. A complete tire service on all four wheels is the modern and economical way to buy.
- Deal with an honest merchant—one who doesn't recommend tires on the basis of discount to him. Your future patronage is worth more to the man who obtains for you the best he can buy.
- Beware of tire sales. Remember, in the end, you don't get any more than you pay for. Getting adjustments is an expensive way for you to try and get even with the game.

SIM'S PUNISHMENT, IF ANY, EXPECTED TO BE BUT MILD REBUKE.

Admiral Sims is not to be degraded. He will not be removed from the presidency of the Naval War College. Neither dismissal from the service nor punishment of any other severe character is to be meted out to him. Sinn Fein clamor for his head and for his humiliation will remain unanswered. At the most, a departmental reprimand for his "calculated indiscretion" in London will be administered. It even may not take the form of a published chastisement. The whole incident may be allowed to blow over as suddenly as it arose. Whatever disciplinary measure is resorted to will take the form of an admonition designed to keep Admiral Sims and all other naval men in future from skating on the perilous ice of national or international politics.

These statements, while emanating from no official quarter, represent the consensus in the highest congressional, naval and public quarters. It would be impossible to exaggerate the remarkable reversal of sentiment in Washington on the Sims' affair. A week ago Secretary Denby's action in peremptorily calling the admiral to account was applauded and approved. Today, on almost all hands, Mr. Denby's procedure is assailed as impetuous and ill-advised. He is criticized as having succumbed to the terrorism of vote-tracking Senators facing re-election by constituencies where the Sinn Fein movement is supposed to have special support.

The Administration is known to be concerned by the nationwide dimensions the Sims episode has achieved. The President formally holds himself aloof from it. It is asserted it "has not even been mentioned" in Cabinet meetings. The occasion is an ideal one for exemplification of the Harding policy of letting heads of executive departments "run their own shows."

MARCH'S RETIREMENT RELIEVES SITUATION GROWING OUT OF PERSHING'S ADVANCEMENT.

Major General Peyton C. March, chief of staff of the United States Army during the greater part of the World War, will retire November 1 at his own request, nine years prior to reaching sixty-four, the statutory age of retirement.

General March will virtually leave the service on July 1, when General John J. Pershing takes his place as chief-of-staff, because he has asked for and has been granted leave of four months beginning on that date.

The retirement of General March ends for the Harding Administration a puzzling problem which plagued the existence of Newton D. Baker during the last few months that he held office as Secretary of War. The commissioned personnel of the army has for some time been divided into the March and Pershing groups. Mr. Baker was the active friend of General March and attempted to make him a full general at the same time that Congress accorded the honor to General Pershing. He assigned General Pershing to some rather routine duties under the Army Reorganization Act, while retaining General March as chief-of-staff.

The present Administration has reversed the situation, and had he stayed in the service General March would have been one of the corps area commanders under General Pershing. The value of General March as an officer was not belittled by the Harding Administration, but it was thought fitting that some recognition should be given to General Pershing for his work as the victorious field leader of the American forces.

AUSTRIA WOULD UNITE WITH GERMANY AT ONCE BUT FOR FRANCE.

Extracts from Col. E. M. House's Vienna letter to Public Ledger, June 19: "Of the future of Austria itself there are many opinions, most of them pessimistic. No one sees clearly the way out. At present there is an overwhelming desire to become part of the German republic. This desire is born of despair and the failure to find a solution of their many difficulties. When all is said and done, Prussia still dominates Germany and will probably always be the controlling factor in any confederation of German States.

"French opposition to a union with Germany is the recent factor in holding that movement in check. If France should give her consent, immediate action would be taken, even if regret were to follow later.

"One of the most interesting things happening in Austria is the feeding of some 400,000 children by the American Relief Association. This benevolent action of the American people has created a profoundly favorable impression throughout Europe. It is reminding evidence that we have not abandoned Europe in the time of her dire distress. The work is being done in such an efficient way that even the mere machinery of the organization reflects credit. Contributors at home may feel assured that their funds have been wisely expended and that the good that has been done will extend to the coming generation and beyond.

"It can be safely asserted that nowhere in Europe are Americans so popular as in Austria, and solely because of the great charity which has been given impetus and direction by Herbert Hoover."

RIPPLING RHYMES CHINESE CUSTOMS.

In China, great and happy land, the doctor's only in demand when folks are feeling fine; he's paid to keep his patients hale; if they fall sick he draws no kale, and must take in his sign. And so we see him on the jump, to cure the measles or the mump, or other fell disease; it doesn't pay to have men sick, so he prescribes his powdered brick, his pills and healing teas. And if the patient cashes in, the heirs kick up a frightful din that indicates their ire; they camp upon the doctor's trail, and ride that learned man on a rail, and set his house afire. And in our land, where culture reigns, when we fall sick, with pea green pains, we call the nearest doc; when we are well we care no whoop for all the potions in his coop, for all the pills in stock. The doctor knows we have a wad, a bundle opulent and broad, he knows we'll pay his bills; and he would more than human be if he were not inclined to see how long we'll take his pills. We put temptation in his way; why should he heal us in a day or even in a year? Why should he show his smoothest curve, and toil and strain his every nerve to put our works in gear? The Chinese plan is much the best, in fact, the peoples of the West might learn much from Cathay; her methods often are so sane they make our finest schemes look vain, like pipe dreams gone astray.

Health Talks

By John B. Huber, AMMD

THE FEAR OF GERMS

Many have jumped to the conclusion that all germs are disease-engendering whereas, in point of fact, the majority of them are quite salutary, and not a few of them indeed are absolutely essential to healthful human existence.

Some germs are the scavengers which convert dead and decomposing matter into constituents essential for plant growth. Were these workers to go on strike for 24 hours, putrefaction would be universal and corresponding deadly, and most animal life would be unlivable and quite destroyed.

Some other bacteria are necessary to bread making. Others give to butters their delicious and peculiar flavors. Others ripen cheese (though they sometimes stay a strifle overtime on the job—it has been asserted that in the late war the Germans saluted such a kind of cheese as being of superior rank). Others play their most welcome part in the manufacture of linen, in the curing of tobacco, in tanning, in the evolution of useful acids.

Then there are very intrinsic differences in virulence among the pathogenic or disease-producing germs. Some are comparatively innocuous, such as the bacterium found in pimples. Grading from this come all degrees of pathogenicity until we reach an extreme in the deadly streptococcus, which produces septicemia.

Besides we must differentiate regarding the various modes of infection—the various ways in which germs gain access to the body. Thus there is infection by direct contact, as when one is bitten by a rabid dog, or as

when a boy gets the tetanus bacillus from dirt into his wounded hand on the Glorious Fourth, by indirect contact, through clothing, bedding, rugs and the like which may have been worn or used by a sufferer; or infection by the intermediate agency of insects (dysentery or malaria); or air-borne infection (tuberculosis) or ingestion infection (cholera and typhoid fever).

The differences in duration of time and the extent to which one has been in the company of the sufferer, must also be considered. Measles, for example, may ensue upon the most transitory exposure; while, on the other hand, tuberculosis will not be contracted unless intimacy with a consumptive has been close, frequent and prolonged, and this is even more true than leprosy.

Finally, we are to take into account the predisposition. Two factors must obtain in every infectious disease. The presence of the specific germ and the predisposition. By the latter is meant the weakening of the body by poverty, starvation, alcoholism or any other agency by which the organs and tissues are rendered susceptible to the microbic attack.

We have been vouchsafed a whole lot of knowledge concerning germs. It is now essential to attain wisdom—to discern what is really to be feared, and how and to what degree; to make right judgments, and then to decide upon what steps must be taken for a rational prophylaxis. Thus would a great deal of foolish and modifying pathophobia (fear of disease) be avoided.

Today's Talk

I am sure that no words of mine are able to take from your heart the loneliness that has crowded out the laughter that was so recently there. But I sorrow with you. The love that I had for her beautiful and happy soul I give to you who loved her, and who now miss her so.

I can understand a little, for I have always wanted a little girl to love, because she never came with her laughter—I miss her. I think of her as she might have been. But you think of the one who was so dear to you as she was.

I have thought of you through your days and nights and wished that I might comfort you just a little.

But as the lovely sunset must be felt as well as seen, so are words of sympathy colorless and gray to one who has had the little sweetheart of his heart taken away. One must be a Father and Mother in one to understand adequately.

The best that I can do is to loan to you some of the "beautiful tall angels" that have been so good to me.

And ask them to stay pretty close to you.

You are much to me. Your fine and generous spirit is a constant inspiration to me. Your fame and success in the world are links of my own happiness, that make the world much more splendid.

The sweetness of the smiles that are now stilled will go out through your noble influence to bigger lands and to more people—and the scent of the newer fragrance will be felt deeper than ever.

The song of your heart will radiate into sunnier heavens!

Her play was so happy. So you mustn't begrudge God having her in His garden—playing where the flowers are always blooming.

Remember that love is melting all around her—where she is.

New Strength and Energy For the Weak and Aged

To be strong, vigorous and active you must have plenty of good, rich, red blood of the kind that organic iron—Nuxated Iron—helps make. Nuxated Iron is like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples, while metallic iron is iron just as it comes from the action of strong acids on small pieces of iron. Over 4,000,000 people annually are using Nuxated Iron. It quickly helps make rich red blood, revitalize worn-out, exhausted nerves and give new strength and energy. At all druggists. Beware of substitutes. Always insist on having genuine NUXATED IRON (For Red Blood, Strength and Endurance)

Father (to Sammy, coming home in a bedraggled condition)—Great Scot! how you look!

Sammy—Yes, pa, I fell in a mud hole.
Father—What! and with your new pants on.
Sammy—Yes, I didn't have time to take them off.

The school principal had been busy all day selecting children from the various classes to do some special work. She was very tired and also very much preoccupied when the janitor entered her office. In response to her mechanical nod he began:

"Miss Blank, that crossing out there is dangerous. If they don't send us a traffic officer some of the children in this school are going to get killed."

She had not really heard his speech; for he was always complaining, so she made no answer. And then he repeated this assertion with some emphasis, adding, "They are going to get killed out there—some of our children."

She had caught the last phrase, and mechanically, after her day of classification, said: "Then I had better pick out the ones I prefer for that."

"Why is Cyril Lapitup ostracized in the colony?"
"Oh, the despicable fellow was caught with two empty pint flasks and a small funnel on him at the Bestcellars' party."

"Well, that's enough to try the patience of Job!" exclaimed the country minister, as he threw aside the local paper.

"Why, what's the trouble, dear?" asked his wife.
"Last Sunday I preached from the text, 'Be ye, therefore, steadfast,' answered the good man, 'but the printer makes it read, 'Be ye there for breakfast.'"

The railroad official invited the stern citizen to communicate his troubles.

"I want you to give orders," demanded the visitor, "that the engineer of the express which passes through Elm Grove at 11:55 be restrained from blowing his whistle on Sunday morning."

"Impossible!" exploded the official. "What prompts you to make such a ridiculous request?"

"Well, you see," explained the citizen, in an undertone, "our pastor preaches until he hears the whistle blow and that confounded express was twenty minutes late last Sunday."

Moving picture operators, disgusted by the demands that are being made on them by their stars, threaten to go into stores, factories and lunch rooms for talent to take their places. They ought to experience no difficulty in the matter, for, believe you us, dearie, you know it yourself, there's a lotta us girls at owny have ta be give a chanct tuh make them four-flushin' scream vamps look like a Cox minority in a Republican year, ain't it th' truth?

Hot weather is here which means if we are to keep well we must change our foods—not, please, that we eat less food. The problem is, I think, exactly the opposite to that. We must plan to see that our meals are so attractive and appetizing that our family has sufficient nourishment to combat fatigue and nerve strain of the hot days.

Of course, we should use less heavy meats and rich gravies, less fats—such as bacon, butter, cream, and fat meats. Appetite tells us this but appetite does not always prove such a good guide.

Too many of us in the Summer time drink quantities of iced tea in the afternoon if we are at home, or drop in one soda fountain after another if we are downtown, until we are unable to eat anything for dinner. A few days of this and our undernourished bodies will commence to fatigue easily. A great many cases of heat exhaustion can be traced straight to inanition.

Cut down the starches and increase the fruits and vegetables. Use cheese and fish frequently in place of meat. Have the table attractive and dainty. Use flowers for decoration, but see that they are fresh. It is bad psychology to have them wilted and drooping.

Strawberries, blackberries, raspberries and cherries will be plentiful this month. Use them while they last, both at breakfast and in the place of cooked desserts at dinner, but are not as wholesome as the berries. Fresh vegetables are plentiful. Pineapples are in prime condition, tiful, homegrown and consequently cheap.

Use Mushrooms

New mushrooms are coming in and for company dinners a few fresh mushrooms add greatly to the elegance of a dish and are not costly, when you consider that a half pound will season a good-sized dish of chicken, and a quarter-pound will be quite enough for a pint of sauce.

Parsley and fresh green peppers add a great deal to the lighter meat dishes.

Later in the month serve oiled tomatoes, fried eggplant or squash in place of eggs for breakfast. Chafing-dish luncheons are attractive and are very helpful during the hot months. Fruit cocktails are a welcome change from hot soup. Good combinations are pineapple, banana and lemon; strawberry and orange, raspberries and currants, cherries alone.

Simple Salads

Bright gold braid is featured trimming on many dark blue coat dresses.

Fluffy tulle gowns are shown for the benefit of the bridesmaid.

Black is still considered the formal, most elegant and dressy color.

Ribbon trimming is the rage just now in Paris.

Cherries, fruit and foliage embellish most effectively some of the prettiest "dressy" hats. The foliage encircles the crown, while the bunches of fruit hang as low as possible on each side.

The new blouses are of unequal length—longer on the sides than in the front.

"The 'backless' gown seems quite 'passe' for which let us all be thankful. It was as unfeminine as it was, as a rule, unbecoming.

Coats are much straighter and have departed altogether from the loose lines of the dolman.

Styles
BY LENORE

Fresh as her burden of flowers and light as her filmy tulle hat, is the exquisite frock she wears. The material she chose is crepe de chine, and she trimmed it with thread lace of a cobwebby texture, enforced on each side of the border by a triple row of fine self-cording. The bodice, while cut close, is fitted with ease, and the fluffy bouffant skirt curves out in the approved fashion of some of the later frocks, the effect being here accomplished by the rows of cording. And note the amusing little puffs which serve as sleeves!

Of course the color is white, for is not this the season of commencement, and class days, and bridesmaids, and well— isn't it summer? However, if one simply must have a black dress that one can count on for dinner, and theatre, and all-around dress-up wear way on even into the Fall, why this is just the style for a fashionable, yet economical frock.

What Paris Is Wearing

Poke bonnets are charming and picturesque and in consequence prove often the wisest choice for bridesmaids.

Calico is used for a number of quaint summer frocks. Calico, combined with linen, makes attractive garden or porch dresses.

Soft black Chantilly lace is charming over white satin. This combination makes adorable evening gowns.

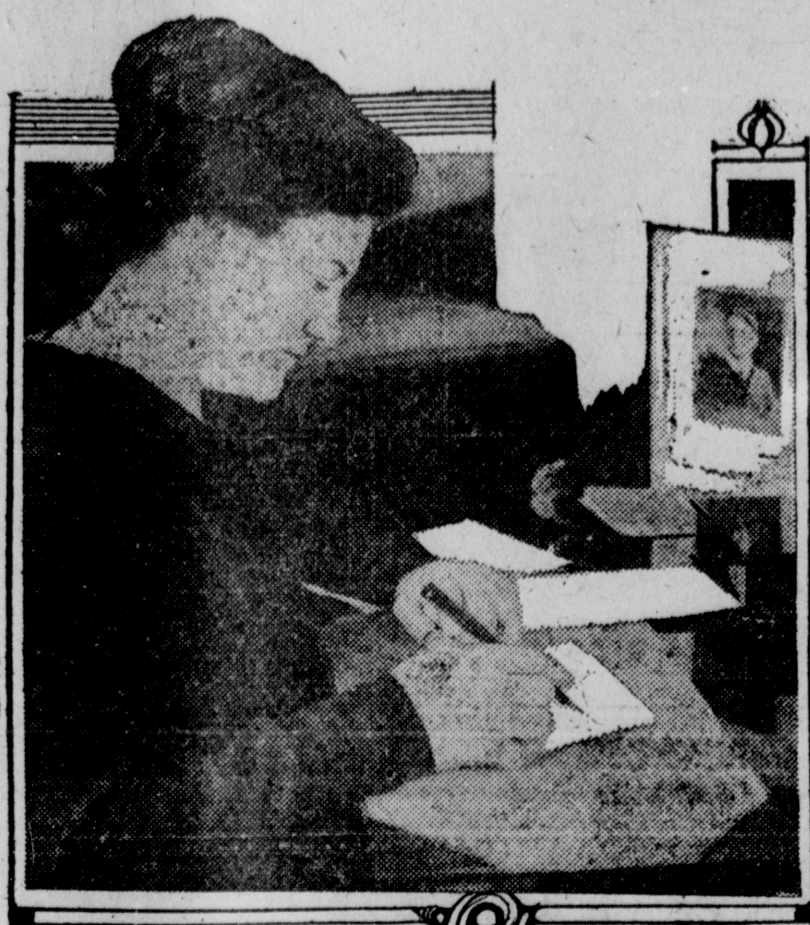

Smartness may be won by sharp contrast of black and white. Very chic is a new coat of black Canton crepe combined and piped with white Canton crepe.

Very smart, the new sports suits having brightly colored jackets with white skirts trimmed with wide bands of the colored material so as to match the coat.

Attractive afternoon Summer dresses will be made of printed chiffon. This new chiffon is very striking, decorated with huge flowers and queer butterflies worked out on a rather dark background.

SISTER OF LATE MAYOR MACSWINEY OF CORK WILL SPEAK IN DAYTON

Mary MacSwiney

Xenia sympathizers with the movement for Irish independence are planning to attend mass meeting Miss Mary MacSwiney, sister of the late Lord Mayor Terence MacSwiney of Cork, will address in Dayton on Thursday evening, June 30th.

Miss MacSwiney, who was constantly at Terence MacSwiney's bedside in Brixton Prison, London, from the time of his incarceration there by the British up to the hour of his death from starvation several weeks later, is now making a speaking tour of Ohio, under the auspices of the American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic.

During the six months that Miss MacSwiney has been in America, she has spoken in practically every large city of the country. In addition to having been received in audience by President Harding, she has addressed fully a score of state legislatures in behalf of her plea for official recognition by the United States of the Irish Republic. She is said to be a most forceful logical speaker.

To Can Pineapple by the Cold Pack Method (requested by Mrs. E. J.): Hold the pineapple by the green top and cut it into slices. It is easier to pare these slices than to pare the whole pineapple. Remove the eyes. Cut into cubes of the desired size. Put these cubes into a wire basket or into a piece of cheesecloth and lower them into enough boiling water to cover; put the cover on the kettle and let them "blanch" in this way (under steadily boiling water) for 5 minutes. Then remove at once and hold the cheesecloth for a moment under cold running water (never let it soak in cold water, as this impairs its delicate flavor.)

Now place the cubes at once in hot, sterilized jars, and pour over them a medium-thin Sirup made by adding 3 quarts of sugar to 2 quarts of water and letting it boil for 5 minutes. You may use the water in which the pineapple was blanched, in making this sirup, as it contains much of the pineapple flavor. (The blanching water of all other fruits except the pineapple cannot be used because it contains objectionable acids that must be discarded; but we blanch the pineapple primarily to soften the hard fibre, so there is no reason why this water cannot be used for sirup.)

After pouring in the sirup to within 1-2 inch of the jar-top, adjust the rubber rings (which have been dipped into hot water), put on sterilized glass tops, and "partially seal"; then put your jars into your wash-boiler canner (filled with boiling water which will come two inches over the jar-tops) and sterilize for 30 minutes.

Remove from canner, completely seal and invert to test for leaks. Take care that no draughts strike the hot jars, or they may crack. In filling them, let them stand on a cloth wrung out of very hot water.

Straw-berry-Pineapple Conserve: 2 cups shredded pineapple, 2 cups strawberries, granulated sugar. Cook the shredded pineapple in only just enough water to cover and when it is tender add the strawberries to it; continue to cook until the strawberries are soft. Then measure the hot fruit and add 3-4 as much sugar as fruit. Return to the preserving kettle and simmer until it falls in very heavy drops from a spoon. Pour into hot, sterilized glasses and cover when cold with paraffine. (Fine for a guest supper.)

Plaxico Takes Two Firsts And One Second, In Opening Event of Races

INITIAL DAY OF RACING PROVIDES THRILLING EVENTS

Driver Plaxico was in the money three times in the opening events of the race meeting which started at the Fairgrounds, Tuesday, under the auspices of the Xenia Trotting Association, furnishing a consistent sensation to spice a day of good racing and fast time.

Nick Grady, from the stable of I. N. Simpson, of Charleston, S. C., with Plaxico up, won the first event, the 2:30 trot, being the only straight-heat event of the afternoon. Later, in the second event, the 2:18 pace, Plaxico drove Archie Burns, the bay gelding by Bobby Burns, ad owned by Beever Brothers, of Hillsboro, to a win with two winning heats and a second, and in the 2:10 pace, he took one heat with Sister Norte, from the stable of J. C. Cochran, of Charlotte, N. C., and won second money.

The feat of being in the money in all three events, and hanging up two firsts and one second position, in a single day's events is expected to set a record for the local meet. For other drivers to shoot during the four days racing. The 2:10 pace, in which Plaxico drove to second money, was won by Bessie L., the well known bay mare by Little Frank, owned and driven by Johnnie Jones, the colored driver, from Cedarville. The little mare stepped the first mile in 1:14, and appears to be better than ever this season.

Crickett was the runner up in the 30 trot, stepping well at the finish in all three heats. Starting Judge, Frank L. Johnson, got the steppers away in good shape, the field scoring only twice before he led them away. Nan Watts, with Gale up and Bernice A., driven by Anderson, going on the break after passing on the first half, Bernice A., owned by Mrs. M. L. Anderson, of Kenton, coming back strong in the rest of the event.

A great spurt in the stretch furnished excitement for the rail birds and enabled Tango, driven by the veteran Cliff Todd, to win the first heat of the 2:18 pace. Archie Burns with Plaxico up, was leading at the wire the first time around, but Todd drove his gelding to a sterling finish that pushed him out in front on the stretch, the win being recorded by a length. Archie Burns came back in this event, winning the next two heats and proving that the next two heats are still good, while Tango was content with second position in the next two heats.

Peter Mauer, the sorrel, owned and driven by L. E. Ruff, of Lancaster, a Peter the Great product, and Barney Stricker, the chestnut gelding owned and driven by Martin of Columbus, pushed Bessie L. to the limit in the first heat of the 2:10 pace and furnished an exciting finish that taxed the judge's eyes, and drew applause from the bugs. Bessie L., took the lead at the start of the first heat, with Peter Mauer coming from fourth position to second in a magnificent spurt, pushing Bessie L., all the way. Fifty feet from the wire, however, Barney Stricker trying hard to place in the money, crowded Ruff's speeder back into third place, while Bessie L., finished first. Peter Mauer proved a strong contender throughout, placing in second position the next two heats, while Bessie L., took the second trip and Sister Norte, with Plaxico up, stepped in and took the third, giving that driver his third money winning event.

The second heat of the 2:18 pace furnished one of the interesting skirmishes of the day. Tango, with Todd up was away in the lead, having the pole after taking the first heat. At the first turn, however, the gelding Fagin, with Johnnie Jones up, took the lead with Tango dropping back to third position. Showing consistent speed and good generalship with the reins, Archie Burns, with Plaxico up, crowded forward on the stretch, dropping Fagin behind and winning the heat in an exciting finish with Tango. A good opening day crowd was on hand for the racing. Trotting Association officials placing the attendance at 1,500. Wednesday, Thursday and Friday are expected to draw many more.

Among the spectators Tuesday was Frank Walker, veteran grand circuit starter, and one of the best known starting judges in the country. Stephen G. Phillips, of this city, who started the horses at the Akron meeting last week was also present. Another interesting visitor in the crowd of racing bugs was E. L. Churchill, of the Western Horseman, a magazine devoted to the interests of horsemen.

BRINGING UP FATHER

BOTH FIGHTERS ARE IN EXCELLENT SHAPE FOR TITULAR BOUT

By JAMES J. CORBETT

New York, June 21.—Champion Jack Dempsey and his dapper challenger, Georges Carpentier, both will be in excellent shape July 2. Never fear about that for a minute.

There will be no alibi on either side about condition after this fight is over. That is as it should be. The fighters owe it to themselves and to the boxing public to enter the ring in the acme of physical perfection. Just look what they are getting.

It isn't their fault of course that the fight game is so strongly commercialized today. But they are profiting by it. And the average fighter of today, thinks more of the commercial end of the game than he does of a championship.

The fighters of today often bet on themselves, but compared with the purses they are getting in this age, they do not wager such sums as we fellows of the bygone days used to.

The movies, too must be considered when we compare the financial side of the game today with that of bygone years. Of course, the law which prevents a boxing "fillum" from being transported from one state to another has taken most of the kick out of fight pictures in this country but they are still profitable. If the Dempsey-Carpentier fight goes from five to seven rounds, the pictures will be worth a couple of million dollars. We never thought or dreamed in millions when I was a fighter. Ten thousand and the glory of winning a title was big stuff in those days.

TO NAME ERTLE AS REFEREE OF FIGHT

Jersey City, N. J., June 22.—The New Jersey boxing commission will name Harry Ertle as the referee of the Dempsey-Carpentier fight at a meeting here today, according to its secretary, Joseph Cassidy. The selection of Ertle is said to be determined upon some time ago and confirmed at an informal meeting on Tuesday. All parties concerned are said to be satisfied with Ertle.

Ertle's experience as a referee began in 1918 when the Hurley law went into effect and since then he has refereed a large number of important fights in New Jersey. Among the bouts over which he has presided was the Carpentier-Levinsky bout, last year.

NAVY, CALIFORNIA AND COLUMBIA ARE FAVORITES IN RACE

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 22.—Three crews stood out as strong contenders today as the country's stellar college oarsmen at the classic Poughkeepsie regatta on the Hudson this afternoon.

The navy, California and Columbia, were favored to put over for a victory that promised to be hard won and from the showing these crews have made in practice spins, the race-over the three mile distance-promised to be a record breaker.

Cornell, Syracuse and Pennsylvania, the other trio in the big varsity events have shown great improvement since the coming to Poughkeepsie to appear for the day's regatta and any one of them might furnish a surprise.

The program of races today included three events, the freshmen, junior varsity and varsity races. The big race was scheduled to start at 7 o'clock daylight saving time, with the crews rowing down stream.

CITY HALL ROBBED

Cleveland, June 21.—Thieves entered the city hall here and got away with $545 in currency from the same in the rooms of the Humane Society on the sixth floor, it was learned today. The robbery which occurred yesterday was kept secret by officials until this morning.

BODY DECAPITATED

Boston, June 21.—Considerable mystery surrounds the finding of the decapitated body of Miss Selma DeLong, former Chinese missionary on the Boston and Albany railroad tracks, near the cottage farm bridge today. An investigation revealed that Miss DeLong disappeared from the home of friends in Brooklyn after it was thought she had retired.

The Revolt of Vera Sanderson

By JANE PHELPS.

MOTHER SANDERSON COMES HOME.

I would follow Erma's advice and do all I could to compel Keith to give me home of my own. Yet what to do more than I already had done was a question. I had begged him at times, at others had wept and pleaded my unhappiness with Margaret. I had said I would be satisfied with two rooms—he had laughed at that, and told me he wouldn't be if I would, that he had not been brought up to live that way. In fact, I had tried every argument of which I could think to influence him; yet his answer was always the same: "I have promised Margaret never to leave her. I shall keep my promise."

That he had no idea of marrying when he made the promise seemed to make no difference. I told him I felt like an interloper, that I had none of the freedom, the rights, a wife should have in her own home, and he replied:

"That is because you take the attitude you do. If you acted like a sister to Margaret, instead of antagonizing her I am sure you would find your home as happy as any other." Then he added, "As I have told you every time this discussion comes up, most girls of your age would be only too glad to live so comfortably, and easily without any care or responsibility."

"I should love responsibility for you and June."

"You imagine so now, but if you had it you would feel quite different. It is no easy matter to run a home and run it well. Margaret is a wonder in that line." He invariably ended with some good word for Margaret.

It is not to be wondered at, in view of our frequent arguments on the subject, that I scarcely knew how to inject anything new into my plea for a home of my own. I had used June tried to make Keith think it would be better for her, but that also had failed. Was there anything new under the sun I could plead to win him over?

I felt like going to Mr. Butler and begging him to marry Margaret. All sorts of wild and impossible schemes came into my mind. Yet the days and weeks passed and nothing resolvable came to me.

One morning Keith received a letter. His mother would be back the following week. She asked him to tell Mrs. Brown, the housekeeper, so she would be ready for her.

I was delighted that she was returning. Perhaps I could go down to Hillsdale, take June, and stay a while with her. I almost spoke of it, so keen was my desire, but restrained myself. If Margaret saw my eagerness she would surely plan so that I could not go.

Keith always ran upstairs at breakfast to bid June goodbye, and I invariably followed him. He still allowed Margaret to have the last word the last kiss. When we were alone with baby, I said:

"Your mother loves children. Perhaps she will like me to bring June down and stay with her a little while."

I said no more. I did not want Keith to speak of it to Margaret, not at once. He would naturally, soon But if she knew I had proposed to go the moment I knew her mother was coming home she would do something to prevent—surely if she knew Keith would be with me.

It seemed to me that my days were a strange sort of hodge-podge filled with happiness when with my baby, hatred when where Margaret was, worrisome thoughts when alone.

I saw more of Keith, because after I had gone to the club, there seemed no real reason why I should not go other places with him. But Margaret did not have so many parties. She said the reason was about over. I felt sure it was because I would have to go. When she entertained at home she invariably had an odd number and so sent Keith home with Mrs. De Lisle.

"Why don't you ask an even number, Margaret?" I questioned one day. "Then Keith would not have to go out."

"Jealous because he takes Alice home?" she laughed.

"No. But I don't think it quite fair to Keith to make him go home with her every time. He gets up early you know."

"Has Keith complained?"

"No, he wouldn't, of course."

"Then I wouldn't worry about it. I knew it was jealousy. But until Keith complains I shall ask him to escort Alice home." Her tone was indescribable when she said Keith wouldn't complain. It was as though he loved to take Alice De Lisle home because he loved her.

This tone which she had of late adopted made me the more anxious to get away, to have a home of my own. Without saying it, she made me feel I was losing Keith. That he no longer cared for me—that he loved Alice De Lisle.

The Beauty of Dayton Tires is More Than Skin Deep

YOU have seen Dayton Pneumatic Tires on a car. You know that they do add immeasurably to its beauty. They are Thorobreds—they look the part. And if you'll examine a Dayton Tire that's grown old in point of mileage, you'll know that beauty is more than skin deep.

The tread of a well worn Dayton Tire has the appearance of polished ebony—smooth—flawless. No chips, no holes, no worn places.

This means service—long service. And every other part of a Dayton Tire measures up to the tread. The tire looks good—and stays good from the day you put it on your car.
